LETTER AIRED BEFORE FORD TRIAL

Rights Official Asks Berrien Probe

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

An official of the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights has requested that the U.S. Justice Department launch a probe of "possible patterns of civil rights violations in the Berrien county criminal justice system" and the county's citizens' grand jury.

That request was the basis of a motion yesterday in Berrien Circuit court in which an attorney for Mrs. Helen Ford asked that Mrs. Ford's trial be adjourned. Judge Zoe S. Burkholz denied the motion, ruling no reason had been shown for an adjournment.

The trial for Mrs. Ford, charged with obtaining $5,900 in back wages from Berrien County Action under false pretenses while she was director, began this morning in Judge Berkholz' courtroom.

A letter from Clark G. Roberts, regional director of the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights in Chicago, to the Justice Department, was attached to Atty. Benjamin Logan's motion to adjourn the trial. Roberts' letter requests the Justice Department's criminal section to "initiate an investigation of possible patterns on civil rights violations in the Berrien county criminal justice system."

It also asks "that the first step be an investigation of the procedures used to investigate, question, and obtain indictments against minority leadership by the Berrien county prosecuting attorney and the citizens' grand jury."

The letter says that Mrs. Ford, who is black, and others "have stated that during their appearances before the grand jury there were no minority jurors sitting. Mrs. Ford and this office are deeply concerned about her chances of obtaining a fair trial, which will be before a jury, because of her record of local civil rights activism and the pattern of allegations we have received from several sources concerning the operation of the criminal justice system in Berrien county."

The letter contends there has been a "use of (the) county grand jury to investigate former minority elected officials who had filed formal civil rights complaints with several federal agencies."

The letter does not identify any person or groups who allegedly used the grand jury for such purposes. It also does not identify any former elected officials other than Mrs. Ford.

Mrs. Ford was named a Benton Harbor city commissioner in February, 1976, and recalled from office in August. She also served as executive director of Berrien County Action (BCA) from 1974 until she was fired by the BCA board of directors in July, 1976.

Last December, Mrs. Ford, now of Chicago, was indicted by the citizens' grand jury on two charges of obtaining more than $100 under false pretenses — one involving the alleged back wages from BCA and the other involving the alleged use of false pretenses to receive a $3,500 car loan.

She has declared herself innocent of both charges.

Atty. Logan's motion to adjourn the trial asked that the trial be delayed until the Justice Department has made a determination on the charges.

Of the 17 people indicted by the grand jury last year, six were black, and the others white.

Roberts' letter to the Justice Department, dated May 19, said his office "has been investigating a variety of allegations of denial of civil rights in Berrien county during the past year," including "allegations on actions of the white-controlled county government and business sector." Other discriminations are alleged to have occurred in the distribution of federal funds for jobs and revenue sharing, and violations in last year's recall elections "which removed five minority and women city officials" in Benton Harbor.

The letter also notes: "Former minority city official from Benton Harbor and a number of minority citizens have alleged racial discrimination within the county criminal justice system. (These) include alleged under-servicing of minority areas by police agencies, police intimidation of minority persons active in civil rights concerns, disparate treatment of arrestees by race, disparate sentencing of offenders by race, disparate availability of county prosecutor's services by race, use of a (federal) crime prevention program for electoral purposes, and segregation in city jail facilities."

Roberts' letter also said "documents, interview reports, and other materials relevant to these issues . . . are available to the (Justice Department's criminal) division at any time."

Teen Drinking Referendum Drive Starts!

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A group that wants to raise the legal drinking age in Michigan is confident it can get enough signatures to put the issue on the 1978 ballot — and that it will win easily. Claiming the legislature can't be depended upon to raise the drinking age, a "Committee to Outlaw Teenage Drinking in Michigan" will kick off a statewide petition drive in mid-June to hike the minimum age to 20.

The group will have a year to get the needed 265,702 signatures to place on the ballot a proposed constitutional amendment forbidding a drinking age lower than 20. Michigan residents can now legally drink alcoholic beverages at age 18. Meanwhile, one of the groups supporting the petition drive blasted Gov. William Milliken on Monday for not taking a position on the issue. "Gov. Milliken has blown it on the drinking age issue," said the Michigan Council on Alcohol Problems.

Legislation raising the minimum drinking age to 19 is before the state Senate. But the chairman of the petition drive said he doubts it could win approval in the House even if it passes the Senate. "I don't think we'd go for a constitutional amendment if we felt we could count on the legislature," said Bill Finlan, assistant superintendent of the Macomb County intermediate school district. "But we know we can't."

Finlan said the goal of the drive is to stop the problem of drinking-age youths providing booze for their younger friends, both at school and socially. "We think 20-year-olds have quit associating with school-age kids," he said. The group mounted an advisory petition drive last year and collected 175,000 signatures from people who wanted the drinking age raised. That will provide a base for the drive to place the issue on the ballot, and Finlan said education, church, law enforcement and drug abuse organizations will help the effort.

"The public never wanted this law in the first place," Finlan said. "They just want it changed. We really think we've got it in the bag." Unlike the Senate bills, the constitutional amendment would not permit 18-year-olds who can drink now to keep drinking. They would have to wait until they turned 20 to resume legal drinking.

"We feel there will be plenty advance warning" of the sudden shut-off of legal booze, Finlan said. The constitutional amendment would also permit the legislature to raise the drinking age to 21 or higher, he noted. "The public really wants 21," he said. "But we don't think that much is needed."

The Council on Alcohol Problems, meanwhile, said it was "incredible" that Milliken "can't make up his mind" on the issue despite recommendations from state agencies. It said the petition drive is a "direct result of the lack of leadership in Lansing, both from the executive office and from the legislature."

Claim Counterfeit Document Ring Broken

DETROIT (AP) — Authorities say they have smashed a counterfeit document ring that operated next door to a church and offered services as complete as any Secretary of State's branch office in Wayne County.

Four men were arraigned Monday and so far eight persons have been charged with selling or buying fake concealed weapons permits, auto titles, driver's license applications, marriage certificates and birth certificates.

Police said one of those arrested is a minister in the Gethsemane Church of God in Christ, adjacent to the office in which printing equipment allegedly used by the ring was found.

Patrick Foley, director of the Wayne County Organized Crime Task Force, said police found more than 1,000 blank concealed weapons permits, about 600 gun safety inspection certificates, several licenses to buy guns, and several marriage and birth certificates.

Wayne County Prosecutor William Cahalan said people who bought the counterfeit documents could "set up a whole new identity with these things."

Cahalan said the ring had no apparent connection with recently reported thefts of blank documents from the Wayne County clerk's office.

The number of arrests in the case is expected to rise to 37 in the near future, Cahalan said. Arraigned Monday for buying phony documents were James Cooper, 59; Sam Moore, 46; Obes

'People Could Set Up Whole New Identity'

Granger, 46, all of Detroit and 26-year-old Arthur R. Andrews of Highland Park.

Arraigned last week on forgery charges, and scheduled for arraignment on further charges today, were Lee Andrew Greer, 62, and Wyllius A. Harris, 61, both of Detroit. The two other persons arrested were not identified.

All of the offenses are included under the technical charge of "uttering and publishing," and carry possible maximum sentences of 14 years in prison.

GRAND RAPIDS — A Benton Harbor woman who threatened a letter carrier with a butcher knife was sentenced in federal district court here yesterday to an indeterminate prison sentence of up to six years.

Barbara A. Kellie, 19, of 814 Thresher avenue, was returned to the Kent county jail awaiting transfer to a federal prison after being sentenced by Federal District Judge Wendell A. Miles on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon against a federal employee.

Michael Ahern, postal inspector from Kalamazoo, said the woman was sentenced under the federal youth corrections act. Her release date from prison will be decided by a parole board, he said.

She was found guilty by a jury on May 5 of chasing Carrier Jim Schweizer, 40, with a butcher knife and demanding her mail. Schweizer said he bypassed her house on his route Jan. 17 because the snow on the front steps hadn't been shoveled.

Schweizer said she continued to threaten him, so he got into his delivery truck. The angry woman threw the knife at the post office truck, breaking the windshield, Schweizer said.

Average I&M Bills To Drop 22%

BY JIM SHANAHAN
City Editor

Indiana & Michigan Electric Company's average residential bills based on 500 kilowatt hours will drop about 22 per cent in June.

The Michigan Public Service Commission ordered the decrease Monday as a result of overcharges through the fuel adjustment clause and because I&M's fuel costs are now lower than in the winter.

Philip Carl Jr., manager of I&M's Benton Harbor division, said the June bills including tax will be $4.79 lower for the average residential customer who was billed $21.57 in May.

Carl said the cut resulted from a hearing May 12 in which I&M testified that its Michigan customers should get a credit. He said the $4.79 was calculated by I&M and the Public Service Commission concurred with

I&M's figures in issuing its order.

The fuel adjustment clause permits utilities to pass on fuel increases to customers and decreases when the cost goes down.

There is a lag factor in billing so fuel adjustments and overcharges are corrected about three months after they occur, Carl said.

Carl explained I&M had unusually heavy fuel fuel costs during the winter when the Cook Nuclear plant was shut down two months. Nuclear fuel costs less than fossil fuels on which I&M was forced to rely through its own generation or purchase from other companies, according to Carl.

Capital costs for nuclear plants are higher than for other generating plants, but nuclear fuel costs less and that reflects in the fuel adjustment clause,

Jobs For Youth May Be On Upswing

For millions of American teenagers, the warm-weather months provide a welcome respite from schoolwork. Many of them, however, are frustrated by their inability to find summer employment — or, in the case of those who have left school, any sort of job at all.

The statistics are sobering. The unemployment rate for the labor force as a whole in the first three months of 1977 was 7.4 per cent, a level which organized labor considers unacceptably high. But 18.6 per cent of all persons between 16 and 19 years old were jobless, including 37.8 per cent of blacks in that age group.

Summer job programs sponsored by local governments usually are swamped by applicants. New York, for example, plans to hold a lottery to fill 1,100 summer jobs with the Parks Department. The demand is great despite the fact that the jobs involve heavy physical labor and pay only $27 a day for three days of work a week.

Some young people find the prospect of a summer job in Europe alluring. But such jobs often require 10 hours of work a day, six days a week, leaving little free time for travel.

In some cases, available jobs go begging because young people regard them as demeaning. Alan Rubnick, vocational counselor at Houston's Yates High School, told U.S. News & World Report: "The work ethic is dead. Somewhere along the line, people have lost sight of pride in what they do. Kids no longer realize that whatever job they have, it has some dignity. For example, they hold the trashman in low esteem, but where would we all be without him?"

The main reason why jobless teenagers have trouble finding work is that they lack marketable skills. Recognizing this, President Carter has proposed a $1.5 billion program to provide about 200,000 jobs for young people. The House passed a bill embodying Carter's proposals on May 17, and similar legislation is pending in the Senate.

In addition to doubling the size of the Job Corps, the Carter program calls for "three new initiatives": (1) a National Youth Conservation Corps, modeled after the Civilian Conservation Corps of the 1930s, (2) youth community conservation and improvement projects, to be developed by state and local governments, and (3) youth job and training programs under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act, which Carter asked Congress to extend for one year.

The Job Corps, criticized as ineffective in its early years, is now thought to be greatly improved. Most of the 61 existing centers are operated by companies under contract to the Labor Department, and unions often participate in the training process. In the four months ended Jan. 30, 44 per cent of the Phoenix Job Corps Center's graduates found jobs and 21 per cent ended up in school or the military.

"I consider that a success," Secretary of Labor F. Ray Marshall told a Wall Street Journal reporter. "I hope we can improve the figures, but these are people with problems. When you can take 65 per cent of them and get them a job, or school, or in the Army, that's pretty good."

Gompers' World Union Follows Rocky Course

What the International Labor Organization (ILO) — does or does not do — at its coming annual conference this June in Geneva will determine whether or not the United States will remain a member of the group. In November 1975, this country announced it was giving the required two-year notice to resign from the ILO. The withdrawal notice can be rescinded any time prior to November 1977, and it is possible that this will happen. But only under certain conditions.

The State Department's 1975 message to the ILO amounted to an ultimatum. It said the United States would make good its threat to quit unless the organization "depoliticized" its activities in the two-year period before the withdrawal notice became binding. Loss of American membership would be a serious blow to the ILO, for the United States pays for 25 per cent of the organization's budget.

So far, at least, the U.S. ultimatum appears to have had the desired effect. At the ILO's World Employment Conference last year, the delegates approved a compromise global employment program that was supported by the United States and other developed countries. It had been feared that the Third World countries would force the adoption of a plan calling for, among other things, the transfer of wealth from the richer nations to the poorer ones.

The United States was further encouraged by a pair of actions taken by the ILO executive council two months ago. The council voted to (1) drop an investigation ILO Director General Francis Blanchard had been ordered to make of workers in the Arab territories occupied by Israel, and (2) require that politically motivated resolutions be screened by an independent body of experts.

These decisions were arrived at by secret ballot. They could be overruled by the annual conference, where open balloting prevails and the tendency toward bloc voting is greater. If this in fact happens, the United States is expected to let its withdrawal notice stand.

The ILO was formed at the Paris Peace Conference of 1919, and the chairman of the commission that brought it into being was Samuel Gompers, founder of the American Federation of Labor. Its tripartite structure makes it unique among international organizations. Each member delegation consists of representatives of government, labor, and business, each of which theoretically exercises equal influence. The reality often is quite different. The Communist countries, for instance, the state owns all the means of production and labor unions can scarcely be said to be independent.

The ILO can point to some notable accomplishments. It has adopted conventions calling for an eight-hour day and a 48-hour week, holidays with pay, freedom of association and the right to organize, and sickness and old-age insurance. Many of these ideas seemed radical or unrealistic at the time, but now they are taken for granted.

The highly charged political atmosphere to which the United States objects perhaps was inevitable in an organization comprising 134 countries, most of which are underdeveloped. Rich and poor rarely see eye to eye on much of anything. And so the current divisions in the ILO are likely to persist.

PREFER PARK OVER PAVEMENT

St. Joseph City Commission
c/o Mr. Joseph Hanley

St. Joseph, Mich. 49085

Dear Sirs:

We would like to add our votes to that of the multitude of citizens who are opposed to the widening of Lake Boulevard. We sincerely hope that the voters' desires will carry more weight than federal funds...this time.

The major reasons were well put at the Planning Commission meeting on Tuesday night. A wide smooth thoroughfare will encourage heavy traffic and endanger the many children who live on or must cross the street. I heartily agree with Mr. Calsbeck's suggestion to brick the street instead! There seems to be far less maintenance needed on the brick streets we still have compared to the several-times-a-year application of tar and rocks that the paved streets require. Instead of "improving" our town so it looks like any other, we should consider ways to keep its charm and increase the "small town" flavor.

Two feet less of Lake Front Park will be far more noticeable than two feet more of street, especially during the Art Fair and Blossom Week when thousands of visitors as well as residents use and enjoy the park. And can we truly even consider sacrificing those 100 year old trees that make the Boulevard a tunnel of coolness on a hot day, for two feet of street?

Conservation of our natural resources should be high on our list of values, and children, parks and trees are truly some of our finest natural resources!

Sincerely

SHE'S CONVINCED SYSTEM'S WRONG

Editor,
This is a follow-up of my letter of May 16 on Social Security, and of Mr. Gelanger's letter of May 20.

To begin with, I did not start this to pick on Social Security and I'd like to make it clear that the people in the Benton Harbor office have been very nice to us and have helped in every way they can.

In the first place, there are automatic raises already in effect on Social Security taxes and between the worker and the employer. We pay 11.70 per cent on $18,500. I think the next step is $19,000, and according to an article in this newspaper, on May 9, President Carter is asking to raise this $2,400 more.

All of this is a little beside the point in question. We are caught in the middle. The shop pension board, the doctor and most of all his family know that my husband cannot work. He cannot even pick-up a bag of groceries without trying to pass-out and having to lie down. Why in the world would he want to work 29 years in one place, then be retired on a disability, to receive half the pension he could receive if he had worked two more years.

Our pension is 30 years of service, 50 years of age and $300 a month. If you remember, he draws $249 a month.

I meant no offense to anyone, including Mr. Gelanger and his staff. But, I stand my ground. Something is wrong when you can be forced to live on an income that won't even feed your family, after a life of hard work and respectability.

Groundbreaking ceremonies will be staged Thursday for start of a building expansion that will nearly double the size of the Howard Johnson motor lodge at I-94 and M-139, south of Benton Harbor. Plans call for addition of 48 guest rooms to the present 72 rooms; a major meeting and conference center; cocktail lounge, and enclosure of the existing outdoor swimming pool.

GRAND JUNCTION — The eighth grade graduation exercises of the Grand Junction school were held Wednesday. This was the last eighth grade class to graduate from this school, as it has annexed to the Bloomingdale school system. Next year only grades kindergarten through third will be in attendance at the school.

The first worship service in the new Church of God, located at Niles and Botham avenues, St. Joseph, will be held Sunday. After serving as the house of worship since 1909, the old church, located at Church and Port streets, St. Joseph, has been sold to UAW-CIO, Local 793. The local, which will start moving from its present headquarters at 307 State street to the new property Monday, plans some remodeling for office space. The United Rubber Workers of America CIO Local 210 will also occupy space in the reconverted church. The auditorium will be used for general meetings.

The matter of a municipal landing field for airplanes was brought before the Benton Harbor city commission last evening, the eventual need of such a field and the suitability of the city property north and west of the present city water plant was stressed. The city land there comprises 31 acres. A variance of opinions as to the location were expressed among them being that the land is too spungy and also insufficient in size. It was also voted to submit to the voters at a special election a proposal to purchase the Voyls-ke property on East Main street for a future city hall site. The owners are asking $100,000 for the property.

Open Meetings Act Problems

WASHINGTON — One of the practices which not long ago distinguished Congress as a backwater of internal democracy was the proclivity of both the House and Senate for transacting the public's business in secret session.

Prior to 1973, between a third and a half of all meetings held annually by congressional committees were conducted in what was euphemistically called "executive session." As a result of reforms in recent years, however, fewer than 10 percent of all meetings now are closed to the public.

But behind that facade of reform there remain abuses of the rules which require openness, a problem dramatized by two unnoticed incidents which occurred earlier this year.

Both involved the most frequently exercised exemption to the open meeting requirements — in cases where sensitive foreign policy, national security, defense and intelligence matters are to be discussed.

That exception is logical but its application often is not, a disparity best exemplified by a meeting several months ago of the Defense Subcommittee of the Senate Appropriations Committee at which the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the Secretary of Defense were to present their annual "posture statements."

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., led the fight for an open meeting, noting that the same two men had offered essentially identical testimony at earlier public hearings of the appropriations subcommittee in the House as well as the Armed Services Committees of both the House and Senate.

But Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., chairman of both the full committee and subcommittee, wanted a secret meeting because "having to clear the room" whenever a classified matter was considered "would be disruptive to any kind of orderly procedure."

Because of the dispute, the subcommittee recessed without hearing the planned testimony.

At the following day's session, McClellan produced Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Stennis acknowledged that his committee did indeed receive similar testimony in open session, but proposed that McClellan's subcommittee ignore that precedent in the name of expediency. The subcommittee thereupon voted 8-3 to hold a secret meeting.

The second incident occurred only a few days later at a meeting of Stennis' committee. Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.H., was intensely interrogating Gen. David C. Jones, the Air Force Chief of Staff, about the percentage of existing targets in the Soviet Union which the White House requires the Defense Department to be capable of destroying in the event of a Russian attack on this country.

McIntyre and Jones discussed a 1974 memo on nuclear weapons deployment. The next day, Stennis' staff embargoed all references to that exchange in the stenographic transcript of the meeting. The version of the hearings later printed for public distribution deleted three portions of the McIntyre-Jones colloquy.

That's all quite logical and reasonable, except for one crucial flaw. The hearing was open to the public, and many of the country's major news organizations — including United Press International, the New York Times, the Washington Post and the Baltimore Sun — had reporters in the room.

Both UPI and the Times promptly reported McIntyre's disclosures that a) in the event of nuclear war, our retaliation strategy requires "a percentage of destruction only in one category — economic recovery" and b) the Defense Department is mandated by the White House to wipe out 70 per cent of all Soviet industry.

Despite widespread publication of those revelations, the Senate insists that the material remains officially secret to this day.

Conservatives Win Big In Britain

It received only brief notice on the inner pages of some newspapers, but what happened in England and Wales on May 5 was politically shocking, and well worth pausing over.

On May 5, elections were held for the County Councils, the highest posts in local government.

On May 6, Englishmen woke up to view an astonishing landslide for Margaret Thatcher's Conservative Party. The raw figures are breathtaking. Overall, the Conservatives gained 1,138 seats in the County Councils, while losing only 3. Labour picked up 8 but lost a smashing 913.

The Liberals, who recently made a deal with the parliamentary Labour Party allowing the Callaghan government to stay in power by an eyelash, won 8 seats and lost 174.

These raw figures are astonishing enough, but they do not fully express the political earthquake that occurred.

In one working class and urban area after another, where Labour normally can count on comfortable majorities, solid Conservative victories were rolled up. Large urban counties all ended up with Conservative councils.

In London, some real novelties occurred. First of all, the Conservatives gained control of the Greater London Council. London Conservative leader Horace Cutler had waged a tough campaign against Labour housing policies, promising to "bring back young people to London" by breaking the housing log-jam.

and it is at least strongly nationalist and anti-Marxist.

With British politics moving so dramatically to the right, it is small wonder that Margaret Thatcher came forward with an interview entitled "How I Plan to Govern" in which she promised that a Conservative government would "roll back" the proportion of British life dominated by the state.

That may be easier said than done. Any British government desiring a fundamental change of direction would have to smash the stranglehold of the big trade unions on British economic life, and also foster a kind of technocratic revolution in British industrial management.

Notice that the May 5 results mark the furthest rightward extension of trends long visible in England, Germany, the U.S., Australia and New Zealand.

As the recent cries of pain from George McGovern suggest, Jimmy Carter has moved the politics of the Democratic Party rightward. The same thing is true of Republican politics.

England pioneered a form of democratic socialism, both in theory and practice. Now that socialism is on the intellectual and political defensive in so many advanced nations, it would constitute poetic justice if England were to lead the trend against it.

SKATE BOARD PATH ARGUED

SJ Adopts Plan For New Park

MRS. J.D. (MARJORIE)
HARTWIG
Club paid for plans

The St. Joseph city commission last night adopted a preliminary plan for developing the 2½-acre Milton junior high school site into a park.

The plan was paid for by the Indian Hills Garden club which hired a landscape architect to design it. Mrs. J.D. (Marjorie) Hartwig, chairman of the club's conservation committee, appeared before the commission as the club's spokesman.

Landscape Architect Michael C. Smith of East Grand Rapids told the commission he designed the park so that most of the work could be done by city employees without hiring outside contractors.

While approving the preliminary plan, the commission reached no decision on whether a skate board path should be part of it.

Questioned after the meeting, Commissioner Leroy Selent said he believed the skate board path would probably be taken out of the plan. He said a cost estimate would be made on the work called for in the plan and then commissioners would decide how much the city can actually afford.

The park site is between Forbes and Niles avenues where Milton junior high stood until it was demolished earlier this year.

The skate board path prompted about a half hour of debate among many of the 37 people in the audience.

Four people who said they lived near the site told commissioners they feared the skate-board path would attract crowds of unruly teenagers and would be too noisy.

"The noise factor 200 feet from my back door is too much to take," said Mrs. John Sciotino, 1469 Forbes avenue. Her husband predicted the path would "attract a bad element."

Others said they wanted the skate board path left in the plan. "I think it is nice...I'd like to see it left in," said Richard K.

Freer, 1310 Forbes avenue.

"I would like to see the little ones have a place where they can do it (skate board) safely," said Mrs. Hartwig, 1226 Riverwood terrace.

The park design calls for a circular asphalt walkway with two entrances on Forbes and two on Niles avenue. A playground with a wood chip surface would be built in the northwest corner and a small amphitheater with three rows of terraced seats would be built in the northeast corner. The skate board path would run around the amphitheater.

The park would include playground equipment made from logs, poles, cable spools and drain pipes.

Several mounds about six feet high would be built around the outer edges of the park and a combination of about 100 broad-leaf and evergreen trees would be planted. Park benches would be placed in some spots on the pathways.

Smith said lights could be placed on the pathways if desired.

He said that in meetings with James Talbot, director of public works, he had been told city workers could do much of the "earth sculpturing." The trees could be provided by the city's forestry department, he said.

City Manager G.W. Hepler said he and Talbot would prepare a cost estimate on the project and would then recommend to the commission how much work should be done. He said the earth moving would probably involve the greatest expense.

The site was purchased by Whirlpool Corp. last December for $50,000 from the St. Joseph school district. Whirlpool has agreed to lease it to the city for $1 per year for 10 years provided it be used as a public park or facility.

In other areas last night, the commission postponed action until its next meeting June 6 on a proposal to collect half the St. Joseph school district millage each summer during the city tax collection.

The proposal was postponed so Commissioners Warren Cast and Joseph Hanley, who were absent last night, could be present to vote on it. Hanley is on vacation and Cast was out of town, according to Hepler.

The commission also postponed action on a bonding ordinance that would outline the legal mechanics of the sale of $200,000 in revenue bonds to help finance a 70 to 75 slip marina.

City Atty. Arthur G. Preston Jr. asked for the postponement, saying he had just learned that day that a private bidder had changed his mind and decided not to purchase.

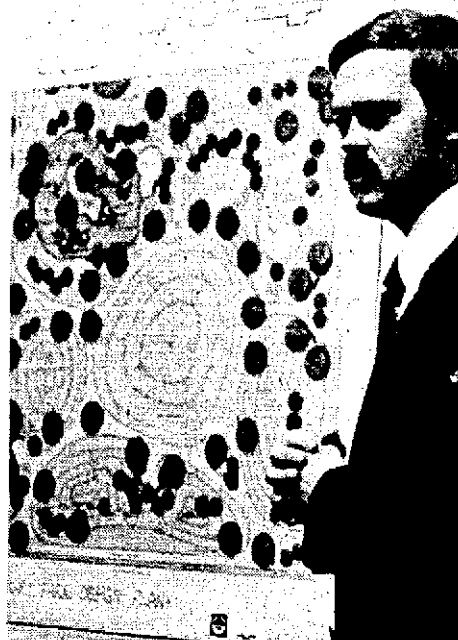

The commission awarded two home improvement grants from federal community development funds.

Mrs. Frances Funnell, 529 Howard avenue, was awarded $1,905 for exterior painting, installation of storm windows and doors and gutter repairs.

Mrs. Margaret Moore, 2212 Pioneer road, was awarded $1,307 for reroofing and new storm doors and windows.

Hepler said the two latest grants bring to 20 the number awarded to homeowners during the last two years. He said there is probably enough money left for one more grant.

The commission approved a $23,500 budget for the Downtown Development authority for calendar year 1977. The budget was adopted by the DDA last week and is retroactive to Jan. 1.

Rescind Law, Save Cost, Benton Urged

Citizens opposed to Benton township's compensation commission yesterday filed petitions for a referendum, and also a request that the township board of trustees rescind the ordinance to spare the cost of an election.

The petitions on 84 sheets contained the names of 1,307 people, according to Frank Graziano, co-chairman of the and Taxpayers of Benton township.

The petitions were presented to Supervisor Catheryn Sirk. Graziano said the signatures comprised more than 10 per cent of the some 10,000 registered voters in the township. It was reported that 5 per cent, or 514 names were required for a referendum.

Supervisor Sirk said it would take about two days to verify the signatures as registered township voters, and that the Berrien county special election scheduling committee would set the date of a special election.

On the possibility of rescinding the ordinance, Mrs. Sirk said it could be taken up by the township board, but not until its next regular meeting on Tuesday, June 7. The board beat down a motion to rescind the ordinance on May 3 by a 5-2 vote.

The compensation commission would set the pay of elected township officials. Its decision would be final unless overturned by two-thirds of the township board.

The petition for referendum states: "We, the undersigned, qualified and registered electors, residents of the Township of Benton, County of Berrien, State of Michigan, hereby, respectively petition for a referendum on the Benton Township Ordinance creating a local officers compensation commission adopted at a regular meeting of the Township Board of Trustees on Tuesday, March 15, 1977 which ordinance was to become effective on (immediately) (April 9), 1977."

Graziano said the dates "immediately" and April 9 were both included on advice of legal opinions. He asked Mrs. Sirk if it would pose a problem in getting petitions verified. Mrs. Sirk said she saw no conflict, but would check with Clerk Larry Trail, who was not present.

Graziano said "immediately" refers to March 15, the date of board action, while April 9 was the date the ordinance became effective. Graziano said 1,042 signatures were collected under petitions dated "immediately," while 265 were collected under the April 9 date.

Graziano said the petition drive could continue, if needed. Graziano was joined yesterday by Cecilia Burke, co-chairman of the citizens' group, Kenneth Platt, publicity chairman, and members Bill Womer, Ron Morris, Florence Rachuga, and Fausto LaFatta.

The township board May 3 appointed five members to the compensation commission, who would set salaries of township elected officials for two years. It would meet on odd-numbered years.

Mrs. Sirk said if petitions are found to contain the proper number of township registered voters and the board does not rescind the ordinance at its June 7 meeting, compensation commission members would be inactive until after an election. She said if residents were to vote against the ordinance, it would be nullified. She said if residents supported the ordinance, it would continue.

Mrs. Sirk said it costs about $3,000 to hold an election in the township. She said no regular general election is scheduled this year and any election called would be a special one.

Graziano yesterday said he believes the purpose is to keep the right to set salaries of elected officials in the hands of residents at their annual meetings. However, Mrs. Rachuga said some citizens were protesting proposed pay hikes for top officials.

Township residents at their annual meeting in April rejected a 40 per cent raise for Supervisor Sirk and 20 per cent each for Clerk Trail and Treasurer Ken Malkin. All three remain at last year's salaries—$12,500 for Mrs. Sirk and Trail, and $9,375 for Malkin.

Malkin said earlier he had joined in circulating a petition calling for a referendum.

BH Unleashes Dog Crackdown

Benton Harbor city commissioners last night unleashed a new animal control program aimed at eliminating loose and unlicensed dogs roaming the city.

The canine control program, which begins operation today, consists of two animal control officers equipped with a pickup truck, a tranquilizer gun and a holding cage for stray dogs.

The two officers were hired with federal CETA (Comprehensive Employment Training Act) funds, according to City Manager Melvin Farmer Jr.

The CETA money, part of a $128,000 grant to the city for a beautification program, will be used to pay the two officers' wages at about $3,500 each, Farmer said. Farmer said the city needs the dog control program to augment "the already overburdened" Berrien county dog control program because the city has an "overabundant amount" of stray dogs.

During 1976, there were 2,903 complaints about stray dogs in the city, 519 dog-related arrests, 1,780 stray dogs picked up and 1,567 dogs from the city destroyed.

Stray dogs pose a potential hazard of attacking children and adults, Farmer said, and are hampering efforts to beautify the city because they tear and scatter garbage.

The two officers will have the power to enforce city dog ordinances, according to Farmer, and will pick up dogs running loose and transport them to the county dog pound at Berrien Center. People whose dogs are picked up will have to go to the county dog pound and pay a fee to get their dogs back, he said.

The two animal control officers received eight weeks of training at the Berrien county dog pound. The county also provided the holding cage for the dogs, Farmer said. The city is providing the used pickup which was formerly in the public works department and purchased the tranquilizer gun for $300.

The $128,000 CETA grant for the city beautification program is being used to hire a total of 19 employees, Farmer said. Other employees will work with the public works department in cleaning streets, parks and alleys, he said. Two people, Lester Mitchell and Willie Leslie, have also been hired at about $3,500 a year each under the grant to coordinate the formation and promotion of neighborhood block clubs, according to Farmer.

Farmer also announced last night that the city has received approval of an application for another CETA grant — $174,000 for four special short-term projects. The projects include a $109,000 home beautification program which will supply laborers for low income families who will provide the materials for home beautification programs such as exterior painting; a $33,000 program to take inventory of books at the Benton Harbor public library; a $9,000 grant to the finance department to survey the city's fixed assets, and a $23,000 program to scrape and repaint the fruit market buildings.

In other action last night, the commission voted to accept a $18,732 bid by the John G. Yerrington Concrete company to demolish three substandard commercial buildings at 106-108 Water street, 144-146 and 371-373 Territorial street.

The commission reappointed David Goldbaum of 1124 Colfax avenue to the library board and named Helen McKenzie of 760 Colfax to the Community Development Citizens Advisory board.

Les Johnson, Community Development director, also announced the city is now taking bids on a three-bedroom house at 642 Green street "as is." The property reverted to the city after taxes were not paid for three years.

Commissioners also welcomed back Commissioner Alfred Williams, who had been absent from meetings since Jan. 31. Williams, 69, was released recently from Hines Veterans hospital in Illinois where he underwent surgery.

Williams thanked the mayor, commissioners, other city officials, citizens and pastors for their messages and visits during his illness.

Dormitory Aide

Larry Livengood, an Albion college junior from St. Joseph, has been chosen as a resident assistant in the freshman dormitory for the 1977-78 academic year. A graduate of Lakeshore high school, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Livengood, 885 Greenbrook street.

PETITIONS IN BENTON: Petitions reported signed by 1,307 Benton township residents calling for referendum on salary compensation ordinance are presented to Supervisor Catheryn Sirk by Frank Graziano, co-chairman of Concerned Citizens and Taxpayers of Benton township which conducted petition drive. Stab Wound Killed Man, Police Report

By RALPH LUTZ
Staff Writer

A man whose body was found Sunday in an apartment at Briarwood apartment complex, Benton township, died of multiple stab wounds, including one that pierced the heart, according to Benton township Det. Lt. Raymond Frye.

An autopsy yesterday determined that death was a homicide, Frye said. A knife that may have been the weapon was found by police in the apartment, 2-A, 1841 Union street.

An investigation to determine the identity of the man is continuing. Frye said the apartment was rented since 1975 by Sam Jewell. He said the body found was of a black man and was badly decomposed, and said dentures and possibly fingerprints may aid in establishing an identity.

Frye said the time of death was not determined by the autopsy, but that it was at least a few days before the body was discovered.

There was no forced entry into the apartment and the door was locked, Frye said. Police were called when a neighbor complained of a bad odor and an apartment maintenance man opened the door with a master key.

At Auto Specialties Manufacturing Co. in St. Joseph, a spokesman in the personnel department said that a Sam Jewell, 55, is listed as an employee, but has been off work since April 13 because of illness.

Township police were awaiting a report from a state crime lab team from Holland which was called to the apartment after discovery of the body.

Southern Methodist Graduate

DALLAS, Texas — Patricia Kay Conrad of 4520 Territorial road, Benton Harbor, received a bachelor of science degree in civil engineering Sunday at commencement exercises at Southern Methodist University here, according to school officials.

Presidential Recognition

COLOMA — Kathleen Sipes, a senior at Coloma high school, has received a Presidential Recognition award from Albion college where she will be a freshman in September. Miss Sipes is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Sipes, 5737 Clymer road, Coloma. Presidential Recognition awards are given to entering freshmen who are in the top five per cent academically of their high school graduating class.

Catholic High Poll Pans State Officials' Big Cars

A poll at Lake Michigan Catholic high school showed overwhelming disagreement with the recent purchase of Oldsmobile 98s and Chrysler New Yorkers for 11 state officials at taxpayer expense. Of 86 seniors and teachers who answered the questionnaire, 12 thought the purchases were appropriate, 64 thought less expensive cars should have been purchased and 10 said they didn't care, according to Sister Marie Burnaby, counselor at the high school.

She said the poll was based on an Associated Press story that said 11 cars costing a total of about $70,000 were bought for Atty. General Frank Kelley, Secretary of State Richard Austin, three supreme court justices and six appeals court justices. "Of all people, state officials should be most open to change from old to new ways that are beneficial to the economy," according to one person who answered the poll. A person who favored the purchase said "I really can't see anything wrong with that, they have high jobs in government, they would look stupid riding around in a VW."

center, Catherine Callender and Scott Williams. Among creatures found by the students were snails, water striders and tadpoles. The center also offers a variety of classes for interested persons.

HIGHWAY: Bees who live in the observation beehive in the interpretive building at Sarett Nature Center, Benton Center road, Benton Harbor, travel to and from the hive to the outdoors by means of the transparent tube which serves as a highway for the bees.

OBSERVATION HIVE: This observation beehive can be viewed by visitors to Sarett Nature Center, Benton Center road, Benton Harbor. The hive is located in the interpretive building at the center. Bees are contained in the four-tier glass unit and gain access to the outside and back inside to the hive by means of a transparent tube.

A Doorway To Nature

One of the goals of Sarett Nature Center, Benton Harbor, is to provide a doorway to the natural world through which local residents may enhance their knowledge and appreciation for nature, according to Charles Nelson, director-naturalist.

Another goal is to make available quality environmental education to all people of the twin city area, Nelson said.

Sarett Nature Center is located on Benton Center road, Benton Harbor, along the Paw Paw River Valley. The 315-acre center contains rolling meadow, woodland, swamp forest, plus a remnant bog, a rich sedge meadow and nearly two miles of river frontage.

Over 180 species of birds have been observed in the past four years and most of the southern Michigan mammals such as deer, fox and red squirrel, raccoon, fox, muskrat, mink and rabbits are found at Sarett. Waterfowl are present especially during spring and fall migration. Several protected plant species exist in their native habitats such as trilliums, orchids, gentians and cardinal-flower.

According to Nelson, Sarett Nature Center is for everyone. There are environmental education courses for students, teachers and adults. Local grade and high schools may choose from one of four classes including a regular tour.

Adults may choose from a full complement of adult nature-oriented classes such as identification of Michigan birds, aquatic ecology, identification of wildflowers, nature photography, survey of natural areas, wilderness canoe expedition, wildflower pilgrimage to the Smokies, trees and shrubs of Michigan, general ecology, wilderness living and ecology, cross country skiing and conservation education for teachers.

Around the clock with WOMEN

CLUBS • CHURCH • FAMILY • FASHION • SCHOOL • HOME SOCIETY

During the past year, 12,000 school children have toured Sarett with an average of 175 students per day in April and May, according to Nelson.

Sarett Nature Center is a private non-profit organization which receives its funding from its membership. The center receives no federal, state, county or United Funds.

The total paid up members is 610 families, an increase of 33 families from last year.

Nelson says, "It is our goal to make available quality environmental education to all people of the twin city area."

This education includes the Skinner Chair of Education created this year. A special fund was created for this program called the Clarence Oranell and Roberta Woodworth Skinner Chair of Environmental Education and presented to the center.

The nature center includes an interpretive building, which is located astride a bluff overlooking the marsh. A three-mile raised trail system with six elevated observation platforms has been completed, as well as a self-guiding loop trail. The interpretive building provides a classroom, orientation-lecture room, library, office, kitchen, display and nature bookshop.

The center is closed on Mondays and open Tuesdays through Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and on Sundays from 1 to 5 p.m. The center is open year around and special programs are provided on Sundays. Naturalist led tours are available by appointment.

Among special events planned during June at the nature center will be a presentation of the Michigan Wildlife Health Organization, Ltd., June 5; a Newage Prairie Walk with Naturalist Cathy Ciolac, June 11; an open house, June 12; an evening stroll, June 18, and a pond study, June 19.

Classes for children of nature center members this summer will include a pre-school nature study, June 20-24; junior nature study, June 27 through July 1; Third and Fourth grade nature study, July 11-15, and Outdoor Living class July 18-22.

A wilderness canoe trip for seventh and eighth graders is planned July 25-29, and an upper peninsula geology field trip for center members will be held Aug. 2-7.

Various tours, classes and programs are held throughout the year at the center.

SCHOOL TOUR: Second, third and fourth graders of Grace Lutheran school, St. Joseph, were among school children touring Sarett Nature Center, Benton Center road, Benton Harbor, this spring. During their tour, Kelly Reuter, left, and Scott Schilke, dipped in one of the ponds along the river trail of the center. During the past year, 12,000 children have toured the center and during April and May, an average of 175 children per day visit the center. The tours are led by naturalists and interns at the center.

LOOKS MAY DECEIVE: Hognosed snake and American toad on table in interpretive building at Sarett Nature Center, Benton Harbor, look cozy, but since toads are the natural food of the snakes, the relationship between these two may not last long. (Staff photos by Harry Smith)

Elementary Students Learn First Aid

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP) — The questions are a little less inhibited when students learning mouth-to-mouth resuscitation are first graders.

An hour-long course called "First Aid for Little People" is conducted by Red Cross volunteers for first through third graders in Rochester schools.

A recent class at Harriet Bishop elementary school was intrigued by "Resusi-Baby," a doll used in teaching artificial resuscitation.

Concerned questioners inquired whether there was any danger the doll might blow its nose during the resuscitation effort. Several of the children were not sure they should be getting so personal with a baby of undetermined sex.

One boy bargained, "First I gotta see another boy do it, then I'll try it."

Besides the essentials of mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, the children learned how to dislodge an object from a baby's throat, identify characteristics of shock, how to apply pressure in stop bleeding and what to do in case of fire.

Students who initially proposed running to get a hose learned that reaching safety and calling for help are more important.

Ten Well-Known American Men Named Fathers Of The Year

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Ten well-known American men symbolizing leaders in today's social structure, were named 1977 Fathers of the Year, here, today, in the 42nd annual awards ceremony.

The presentations were made by the National Father's Day Committee, in the Hotel Americana in New York.

Those who received the highly respected DAD awards were Ambassador Andrew Young, National Father of the Year; Dr. James R. Schlesinger, Statesman Father of the Year; Leon Jaworski, Jurisprudence Father of the Year; John Chancellor, Communications Father of the Year; John Newcombe, Sports/Tennis Father of the Year; Roy White, Sports/Baseball Father of the Year; Albert M. Shanker, Labor/Educator Father; James Broderick, Television Father; Benjamin L. Hooks, Humanitarian Father, and Jerry Stiller, Entertainment Father, who made the presentations on behalf of the National Father's Day Committee, as host/master of ceremonies.

United States Ambassador to the United Nations, Andrew Young, was named National Father of the Year, by the National Father's Day Committee. At the time of his appointment in January, he was a member of the House of Representatives, and has long been identified as a leader in the Civil Rights Movement, in which he was a close associate of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Young has also been a pastor, and an official of the National Council of Churches. He graduated from Howard University and the Hartford Theological seminary and is an ordained minister of the United Church of Christ. He, and his wife, the former Jean Childs, have four children.

Dr. James Schlesinger, Statesman Father of the Year, has been in government service for many years, as assistant director, Bureau of the Budget; Chairman, AEC; Director, CIA; and Secretary of Defense. He is currently assistant to the President directing the vital Energy Program. He is married to the former Rachel Mellinger. The couple has eight children, four girls and four boys, ranging in age from six to 23.

Leon Jaworski, one of America's outstanding and beloved attorneys, was named Jurisprudence Father of the Year. His influence on American life since his designation as Watergate Special Prosecutor has been profound, and has touched almost everyone in the United States. An outstanding lawyer, he also has received many civic awards for his involvement in community activities. In World War II, he served as a colonel, Judge Advocate General's Department. Later, he personally prosecuted the first major war crimes trials in the European theatre. He is a holder of the Legion of Merit award.

John Chancellor is seen and heard every weekday night by millions of Americans on NBC Nightly News. His cogent analyses are deep and penetrating, the culmination of a reporting career that began when he joined the Chicago Sun Times in 1948. His association with television and the national political conventions goes back to 1956, and he has covered every Presidential campaign since 1956.

He is a graduate of the University of Illinois. John Chancellor was named Communications Father of the Year. John Newcombe was awarded the Sports/Tennis Father of the Year designation in a tribute to his example to young people through his tremendously impressive court play as one of the world's outstanding amateur tennis players. He won both Wimbledon and Forest Hills Championships in 1967, and today runs a tennis ranch in New Braunfels, Tex., where he lives with his wife and three children. He is also president of the Association of Tennis Professionals.

Roy White, Sports/Baseball Father of 1977, is one of baseball's most highly respected players. A senior member of the New York Yankees, he has been a model of consistency year after year, and is considered one of the best left fielders in Yankee history. He has twice been an All Star. An accomplished speaker, a graduate of Compton junior college, he has also appeared in motion pictures. He married the former Linda Hoxie, and the couple live, year around, in New Jersey with their two children, a daughter and a son.

Albert Shanker, 1977 Labor/Educator Father of the Year, is president of the United Federation of Teachers and the American Federation of Teachers, which represents about 500,000 teachers nationally. Beginning as a mathematics instructor in junior high school in 1952, he shortly became active in union affairs, and led the drive for recognition of the profession which resulted in improved pay scales, pensions, health-care programs and realistic retirement programs at the age of 55. He, too, was identified with the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King. Shanker is also a writer, and active, not just in labor organizations, but also as a public speaker. He is married to the former Edith Gerber and the couple has three children. Among his many hobbies is cooking and baking of Viennese pastries.

The 1977 Television Father of the Year is James Broderick, star of ABC-TV series, entitled "Family," in which he plays the role of a modern father, confronted with the varied and, often, baffling problems of 1977. He made his stage debut in 1953, has since starred in many off-Broadway productions, movies and television presentations. In real life, Jim Broderick and wife Patricia live in New York, although he has a bachelor apartment in Santa Monica where he lives when he's doing his TV series. When he can put three days together, he jets back to New York to be with the family. He also owns a home in County Donegal, Ireland, where he spends summers and holidays. It's right on the ocean, he boasts. The Brodericks have three children, two daughters and a son.

Benjamin L. Hooks, Humanitarian Father, has combined the careers as a lawyer and minister since 1956, meanwhile pursuing an active business career. As a Federal Communications Commissioner, he first served as a judge in Memphis, Tenn., from 1965 until his appointment to the commission in 1972. Hooks is executive director-designate of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, a post he will assume immediately upon completion of his term as Commissioner of the FTC on July 31. He and his wife, Frances, have a daughter and two grandchildren.

Jerry Stiller, Entertainer Father of the Year, is well known for his roles in radio, television and films. With wife, Anne Meara an actress in her own right, they have become well known for their poignant, contemporary, humorous and earthy roles together. Despite their worldwide entertainment obligations, Jerry and Anne feel strongly about staying as close to home as possible with daughter Amy and son Benji, who do accompany them on long trips. Stiller also served as host and master of ceremonies at this year's presentation.

These outstanding father figures are the latest in a long line of well known and deserved Americans, who for almost two generations, have reflected every facet of change in American life styles through the years.

Theodore M. Kaufman, chairman of the National Father's Day Committee, commented, "The Father of the Year Awards are among the most significant and coveted in our society."

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

They LIKE Shabby Look

Dear Ann: Your letter about spiffy-looking wives and shabby husbands got to me. I refer to your statement: "Show me a married man who looks like a refugee from a rummage sale and I'll show you a wife who doesn't care about him."

My husband's appearance has been the bane of my existence. I would give ANYTHING if he would take some pride in the way he looks. But it's hopeless. I have bought him beautiful shirts and ties — even dragged him into stores and made him buy handsome suits, but they hang in the closet. He doesn't want to "wear them out" — or "let them dirty." SO — day after day he goes to the office (he's an executive!) in threadbare slacks and jackets with patches on the elbows. He looks like a Care package. I just die when I think he is meeting clients, colleagues and other executives who are well dressed.

ANN LANDERS

But there is nothing I can do about it, because that's the way he is. It hurts when you say it's the wife's fault. I know different. — Just Me

Dear Ann: I received dozens of letters from women who are singing your song. Here's another:

man makes $52,000 a year and has a Ph.D. I say he's sick. What do you say? — His Wife

Dear Ann: I can't improve on your diagnosis. You've pegged it. Read on — there's more.

It May Work

Dear Ann: When my husband was courting me he looked like a billion dollars. After we were married he decided he didn't need to dress up anymore.

I pleaded with him to buy some new suits — even gave him gift certificates for his birthday and Christmas. He never used them.

Finally I threw out almost everything in his closet and left just enough for him to get himself downtown and buy new clothes. He was furious, but it worked. Now he enjoys dressing up again and looks like that guy I used to know. — Sweet Victory

Dear Sweet: I'm not recommending your solution to everybody. But glad it worked for you. Here's more:

Another Tootsie

Dear Ann Landers: If a husband doesn't want to dress like a fashion plate, I say leave him alone.

My old man never cared much for clothes. After we were married (seven years) he began to buy Italian shoes and tailor-made suits. He also went in for fancy colognes and cuff links, things I never saw him use before.

Well — I found out he was having an affair — caught him flat-footed in a motel. He and she were checking in and I was buying magazines.

I gave him a nice hello, nodded to her and walked out. Half an hour later he was home — on his knees in his cream-colored gabardine suit — begging me to forgive him. He swore "never again" and that was the end of it.

He is dressing more like he used to and it's perfectly all right with me. — Content

Dear Content: Glad your story had a happy ending.

Do you feel awkward, self-conscious — lonely? Welcome to the club. There's help for you in Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11986, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Announce Summer Season

TRAVERSE CITY — Cherry County Playhouse at Traverse City will open its 1977 summer season June 28 and has already scheduled four of its seven shows.

The opening play will be "Stop the World — I Want to Get Off," starring Arte Johnson, television and film celebrity. The play will run for two weeks beginning June 28.

CCP producer, Pat Paulsen, is scheduled to make his annual appearance in the third spot on the bill. He will star in "God's Favorite," July 19-21.

Following "God's Favorite," will be a one week run of "Charley's Aunt" starring Donald O'Connor, Aug. 2-7.

From Aug. 8 to Aug. 14, Dick Smothers will appear in "Prisoner of Second Avenue."

Those wishing ticket information may contact the theatre box office.

MARKET INFORMATION

Cooking For One

Cooking for one a few years ago would have projected the proper image of "a little old lady in tennis shoes," but no so today, according to Maryann Beckman, District Extension Consumer Marketing Information Agent.

Mrs. Beckman added: The number of Americans under 35 who maintain households alone has doubled from 1970 to 1975... from about one and one-half million to three million, according to the United States Census. There are more older people in our society, too, who also need smaller size units of food.

The retail food industry sees the singles market as opportunity knocking at the door and they're doing something about it. Supermarkets also recognize that they have been losing out to fast food operations, so see the single-servings market as a way of recapturing some of the business they've lost, too.

In the past, supermarkets have been entirely family oriented and not too quick to change, but business is now becoming more alert to changing life styles and they're trying to introduce products that meet current needs. On the whole, the food industry record is good.

It is the consumer's responsibility, too, to react knowledgeably when products are introduced or offered for sale.

I get many calls, for example, from people who want to buy half-pints of milk or a half dozen eggs, along with questions as to why the single-serving units cost so much more. Knowing how, what and when to buy can help increase consumer's knowledge.

There is no real reason to buy just a half dozen eggs, for example, for eggs will keep well for many weeks in the refrigerator without spoilage or harm.

Another solution to higher priced single-serving units is to learn to buy in regular size containers but to cook for one or two only. There is a difference. Get in the habit of preparing family-size recipes and then divide the recipes into meal-size portions and freeze for later use. This saves money as well as energy — yours and that of the range or oven.

Chow mein, casseroles, non-cream soups and spaghetti all freeze very well, for instance. Take the food out of the freezer the night before and thaw it in the refrigerator for tomorrow's dinner. This results in another energy savings without courting food poisoning. The higher unit prices are blamed for limiting the growth of single-serving goods, for some people living alone truly cannot afford the additional costs of single-serving food, legitimate as they may be. And, in most cases, the higher costs are truly legitimate. No reasonable person can expect, for example, that a pint of milk should sell for half the price of a quart of milk.

Container costs represent about two and one-half cents of the average 47 cent cost of a quart of whole milk sold in a carton. Additional filling machine and labor costs of 5.2 cents raise the dairy's packaging costs alone to about eight cents on a quart. The dairy can use the same machine that fills quarts to fill pints, but it works at the same speed, making it only half as efficient when filling pints.

Container and packaging costs are slightly less for pints, but lower sales volume for pints would still make the unit cost for pints as much or more than for quarts for everything but the milk itself. Therefore, the pint of milk, if available would cost about three-fourths the price of a quart.

Shoppers who really want to be able to purchase a pint of milk must accept these costs as legitimate. After all, one can't expect the quart, two-quart and gallon milk buyers to subsidize the pint buyer's purchases. And that is what you are asking for when you want half-size packages at half price.

might well have won the first heart with the king. Hence the odds are that East holds the king and South should play his face card.

If he does play the face card the rest of the hand is easy and he winds up making either nine or 10 tricks. If he plays the nine, he may still scramble in that ninth trick, but he may also wind up with just eight.

Ask the Jacobys

A New York reader wants to know if modern players still play the jump response in a new suit by an unpassed hand as a force to game.

The answer is that except for a small, and in our opinion, almost lunatic fringe they do.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

If today's hand were played thousands of times the chances are that every South player would find himself in three no-trump against a spade lead by West.

He wins that spade lead in dummy and plays a heart. East follows with the deuce and South plays the queen or jack only to have West win with the ace and head a second spade. South wins that in his own hand, enters dummy with a diamond and leads a second heart. East plays the six and South must decide whether to play the nine or the remaining face card.

It looks like a guess, but it isn't. The principle of restricted choice applies here. If West had been dealt both ace and king he

My aunt is in the hospital suffering from "left heart failure". What on earth does this mean? — Miss E.E.S., Wisc.

Dear Miss S.: I hasten to relieve you by saying that there is only one heart.

The term "left heart" failure has special meaning to doctors for "left" heart and "right" heart refer to different sides of the heart, rather than to two heart structures.

The heart has four chambers: two smaller auricles, and two larger ventricles. There is one auricle and one ventricle on the right side of the heart, and one auricle and one ventricle on the left side of the heart.

Blood that circulates through the body, bringing vital oxygen to all of its parts, is then returned to the "right" heart. The "right" heart muscle now pumps the blood into the lungs, in order to reaccumulate more oxygen.

Then the newly oxygenated blood enters the chambers of the left heart, which again pumps the blood to all the distant parts of the body. Then the cycle begins all over again.

"Left heart" failure simply means that the muscle on the left side of the heart (the ventricle) is not strong enough to adequately pump the blood. The result is that blood is dammed back and interferes with proper circulation.

When the allergy season is over, should the pills still be used? — Mr. K.S., Va.

Dear Mr. S.:

Anti-allergy, or antihistamine, pills, like any other drugs, should not be used indefinitely. Periodic direction by the physician who prescribed them is important.

When the allergy season is over, and the symptoms are no longer apparent, it is pointless to continue to use the drug. Within ten hours after anti-allergy drugs are stopped, the body can be said to be free of them.

Many patients have learned to take an occasional antihistamine if mild symptoms recur. Outside of drowsiness these drugs rarely have any toxic side reactions.

I've noticed that my sense of taste is not always acute. Within 24 hours it comes back, just as it had gone, with no apparent reason. — Mrs. D.E.T., Ga.

It is unusual for taste and smell to come and go as you described it. I add the sense of smell because so often they are related to each other. Unusual fatigue and tension, dietary indiscretion, some drugs, or overuse of alcohol and tobacco are mainly responsible for these variations.

ANDREWS SHED BURNS: Fire last night destroyed this sawdust storage shed and two farm wagons on Andrews university campus. Shed is adjacent to university heating plant which was undamaged. No one was hurt in 9:10 p.m. blaze. Sawdust from nearby College Wood products, university-owned furniture manufacturing facility, is stored in shed for use on college farm and on plant beds around campus. College officials estimated damage at about $20,000. No cause of blaze has been determined. Berrien Springs firemen hose down blower on top of shed. Sawdust is blown from wood products building through pipe into shed. Two units from fire department of Eau Claire village and Pipestone and Berrien townships responded also. Two students passing by saw flames and alerted university employee who called firemen. Similar fire in October, 1975 damaged shed and spread to boiler area causing estimated $50,000 damage. City, Union Tell Of Progress

SOUTH HAVEN — Both South Haven city officials and employee union spokesmen report progress was made yesterday in negotiating a new labor agreement.

A state labor mediator was brought into the meeting after members of the Independent Municipal Employees union of South Haven voted 29 to 1 to strike after a negotiating session was cancelled Thursday.

The pact, which affects most hourly employees and full-time members of the fire department, expired April 15. Only two meetings had been held prior to yesterday.

City Manager Paul Sharon and Union President Dennis Mulac each reported last night that talks were productive and that the threat of a strike appears to have eased.

Sharon reported that approximately 22 of 29 issues including the length of contract had been agreed to. He said matters of wages and cost-of-living provisions remain to be negotiated and that another meeting with the mediator has been scheduled for June 2.

Many of the issues settled included clarifications of job classifications in the old agreement, according to Mulac.

Sharon said the parties agreed to a three-year contract with expiration date of June 30, 1980.

All terms remain subject to ratification by employees and the city council.

South Haven Meeting Is Postponed

SOUTH HAVEN — A scheduled special meeting last night of the South Haven Community Hospital authority board of directors was postponed, according to Administrator Wayne Eagleson. The meeting had been called to consider naming an architect for designing a proposed $1.2 million construction and improvement program at the hospital. Eagleson said he was not ready to make a recommendation, causing the postponement. No new date was set for a meeting.

STANLEY BUSHOUSE
Resigns post

Bloomington High Principal Resigns

BLOOMINGDALE — The Bloomington school board last night accepted the resignation of high school principal Stanley Bushouse.

The resignation is effective July 31. Dr. Bushouse, who came to the Bloomington system in September, 1975, is resigning to accept the position of high school principal at Coldwater.

In other areas, the board discussed with the school architects the proposed construction of a 41,000 square foot addition to the high school.

Guido Binda of Binda and Associates of Battle Creek, told the board that the addition would cost about $30 per square foot, or about $1,230,000.

The board has been seeking building expansion as a way to end split sessions for Bloomington students.

At its April 25 meeting, the board set Sept. 12 as a special election date on a school bond construction issue but has not yet determined how big the issue will be.

The board also voted to deny the request of LeRoy Wolins, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wetzke, Pullman, that their properties be transferred from the Bloomington to the Fennville school district.

School officials said a joint hearing of the Allegan and the Van Buren intermediate school districts on the property transfer requests will be held June 14, at the Van Buren intermediate school offices in Lawrence.

The school board also set a special meeting for Monday, June 6, at 8 p.m., at the high school library.

South Haven's Housing Commission Gets Budget

By TOM BENNER

SOUTH HAVEN — A budget to operate South Haven's public housing program in its 1977-78 year was presented to the housing commission during its regular monthly meeting last night.

Executive Director Dennis DeVinney has projected revenue of $85,110 against expenditures of $83,720.

Both the anticipated revenues and expenditures are below those budgeted for the current year. The commission projected income of $91,170 for the current year, but it is expected to be less because of recently approved increases in the monthly utility allowance given tenants.

Expenditures this year were estimated at $101,250 but included $24,000 for improvements to existing units which the new budget does not.

The budget will be presented for adoption at a special meeting June 7. The budget is to take effect July 1.

The commission did announce last night that it has approved salary increases for its three employees. They were eight per cent increases for the executive director, from $13,518 to $14,599; and secretary from $3,500 per hour to $3,780; and a 12 per cent increase for the maintenance man, from $4.56 per hour to $5.10.

In addition to adopting the budget at its June 7 meeting, the commission said it will award a contract for installing new screens and storm windows at the 50 units of family housing.

In other areas, the low bid of $1,250 from Johnson, Frazier and Wright, C.P.A. of Atlanta, Ga. to conduct the audit was approved.

The commission asked the city council to give the Vanderveen construction company of Kalamazoo another opportunity to present its proposal for constructing additional senior citizen and family housing units in the city.

The firm has proposed to build the units through the Michigan State Housing Development Authority.

The city council last fall rejected a proposal to build 70 units of housing for the elderly and 30 units for families. The city and developer had originally sought 100 units of elderly housing, but the state agency rejected the plan. The state said it was under orders to place housing units in communities for both families and the elderly.

City officials made two trips to Lansing to appeal the decision, saying South Haven had met its responsibility for providing public housing for families.

The state subsequently agreed to approve the city's original request for 100 units for the elderly, but stipulated that 15 units of family housing be constructed.

Isaac Green executive director of the housing development authority, told city officials last week that the project would be funded this year, if approved by city council.

Public Hearing On Apartments Slated June 27

COLOMA — The Coloma township planning commission last night set June 27 for a public hearing on a request to rezone the proposed site of a 48-unit apartment development, estimated to cost $830,000.

The hearing on the request to rezone the 7.9 acres, located on Angling road, south of Ryno road, will start at 7:30 p.m., and be held in the Coloma township hall.

The request was filed by Mrs. Jessie Murdock of Watervliet for the proposed developer Ken Fowler, head of KCF Properties, Lansing. It seeks to have the property rezoned from commercial to multi-family use.

Six buildings, each containing eight apartments, are to be built if the site is rezoned.

Fowler told the commission during its April 25 meeting another 24 to 32 units are being considered for the site in the future.

In other areas, the commission tabled action on plans for a nine-lot subdivision in what had been Strong's resort, off Paw Paw lake road, until the June 27 meeting pending formulation of as yet unspecified development or use restrictions.

The commission set its June 27 meeting as the date for a hearing to consider rezoning a parcel of land from agricultural to commercial use.

The property, located approximately one-fourth of a mile east of the Coloma city limits on the south side of Ryno road is owned by Jeff Godlew, and has been used for operating a small auto body shop in his garage.

ACCUSED: House investigators accused a Federal Communications Commissioner of "an open conflict of interest" Monday for holding $23,500 worth of stock in three companies involved in communications. The investigators told the House commerce investigations subcommittee at a hearing Monday that he is Commission James H. Quello, above. (AP Wirephoto)

Coloma Hears Proposal On Skate Board Track

COLOMA — Plans for a proposed skate board track were outlined to the Coloma city commission last night by Anthony Argondelis, developer.

In outlining the plan, Argondelis said recreation is needed for youngsters in the Coloma area and he felt the skate board track would answer the need.

According to Argondelis, approximately four acres of a nine-acre tract near the western edge of the city limits, on the south side of Center street, would be the location for the track.

City officials said the property is presently zoned residential and would have to be rezoned to commercial.

The commission tentatively set Tuesday, May 31, at 7:30 p.m., as the date for a special meeting to hear Argondelis submit a formal request for the proposal.

No cost estimates for the development were available, Argondelis said.

In other areas, the commission approved a resolution supporting county officials in expressing displeasure at the delay in constructing the US 31-53 bypass and recommending the work be completed before the now scheduled completion date of 1985.

The commission took under consideration a recommendation from a Coloma high school junior, Paul Curtin, 2012 Wilson avenue, that additional trash barrels be placed along St. Joseph street, between the high school and a snack bar, to alleviate a littering problem.

Curtin in a letter to the commission, said only one trash barrel is located along the quarter mile distance.

The commission approved extending a six-inch water line from Morrison street, under Park street, to the property line of Grand Tran Inc., on Park street, for use by the firm in installing a sprinkler system to the plant. The city's cost of extending the line was set at $1,530, with the remaining cost, $2,875 to be paid by the firm.

The commission approved authorizing the city engineers to prepare specifications for a new storm drain along Center street.

The commission approved hiring several persons for part-time summer help. Approved were Jeff Jollay, $2.75 per hour and Jim Ridge, $2.50 per hour.

River Valley Schools Plan Student Placement Program

THREE OAKS — The River Valley school board voted last night to begin a program to help place students in jobs in the 1977-78 school year.

Dr. Charles Williams, superintendent, said the program will cost nothing additional while it is being operated during the school year. It could cost up to about $453 for its operation during 10 days in the summer, he added.

He told the board that the state is moving towards legislation that would require such placement programs at high schools.

In other areas, the board hired the General Appraisal Co. of Chicago to appraise all school property. Fee for the appraisal will be $3,500 plus a cost of $300 to update appraisals in subsequent years. The firm was one of four that bid for the appraisal contract.

General Appraisal was not the lowest, but the best bid, school officials said.

The board also adopted a revised language arts curriculum for grades K-12 that has been under development by teachers and administrators for over a year.

Peter Petrus, principal at the New Troy campus and director of the curriculum council which devised the course of study, said the new program is not an effort to change the English program, but does develop a series of skills that will be taught throughout the grades in all areas of basic communication.

Text materials for the new study program will cost $11,731, an expenditure the board also approved last night.

GRADUATE: Dennis Belter, Eau Claire, received bachelor's degree from Northwestern College, Watertown, Wis., according to school. He is son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Belter, Sr., route 1, Box 220, Eau Claire.

Tax Cuts Mean Fatter Paychecks After June 1

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — About 46 million workers will find their paychecks a little fatter next month, the result of the new tax cuts that begin June 1.

The average reduction in weekly withholding tax will be $2.13.

A family of four earning $10,000 will pay $200 less in federal income taxes a year, a drop of about 30 per cent. At $15,000, the tax reduction will be $111 a year.

President Carter, in signing the tax cuts into law Monday, called them "a very great benefit to the American average family." He said 80 per cent of the estimated $5 billion in tax cuts will go to people earning less than $15,000 annually.

The reductions, a key part of the economic program Carter proposed shortly after taking office, will benefit only taxpayers who claim the standard deduction when filing their tax returns. Taxpayers who itemize will not be helped.

The new standard deductions are $3,200 for married couples filing a joint return and $2,300 for single persons and heads of households. The old standard deductions ranged from $2,100 to $2,800 for couples and $1,700 to $2,400 for single persons and household heads.

The new law will, however, raise weekly withholding about $1 for 2.2 million single Americans who earn more than $13,750 and claim the standard deduction.

There are several other benefits to the tax cut legislation. By standardizing the deduction, about 3.3 million low-income families won't have to pay income taxes.

The law makes it advantageous for 6.7 million taxpayers who had itemized deductions to use the standard deduction.

And the new law extends temporary tax reductions voted in past congressional sessions, including lower corporate taxes, the $35 per person tax credit and the earned income credit.

The total amount of tax help, including the extensions of past reductions, is estimated at $34.1 billion over the 28-month period ending Dec. 31, 1978.

The bill contains simplified procedures for computing tax liability for nearly all taxpayers. The entire package is retroactive to the start of 1977.

The law also contains a tax credit for businesses to enlarge their work forces.

The Internal Revenue Service says it mailed instructions to employers last Friday on how to reduce the tax withheld from workers' paychecks to reflect the new deductions.

An IRS spokesman says employers should reduce the withholding automatically, so that workers will not have to do anything.

However, the spokesman says employees may want to recompute the number of exemptions they have reported to their employer for withholding purposes.

The amount of tax withheld decreases with the number of exemptions an employee declares. Ideally, the IRS says, an employee should try to have an amount withheld that will equal his actual tax.

Crook Himself, Not Society, To Blame, Researcher Hints

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Criminal behavior is not a mental illness and cannot be reversed by giving people education, jobs or money, says a Freudian psychologist involved in an intensive federal study of crime.

Dr. Stanton E. Samenow has worked for the last seven years at a federally run Washington mental hospital, where he assisted the late Dr. Samuel Yochelson in an ambitious study of how criminals think and what makes them different.

Samenow told a news conference Monday the experience caused the psychologists to throw out orthodox beliefs that people committed crimes because they felt guilty and subconsciously needed to be punished.

Since the search for a cause didn't work, the psychologist said, he and Yochelson, who died last November, stopped asking why and began looking at how the criminals thought.

Samenow said he and Yochelson identified 53 separate thinking patterns that each of their 225 hardcore criminals, from white-collar crooks to grade school dropouts, had in common.

Those characteristics included anger, pride, sentimentality, lying, intolerance of fear and procrastination. While many people have some of these qualities, he said, criminals "have them all to an extreme."

"Lying is a way of life to make fools of other people," he said.

Yochelson said he found that his subjects, about half of whom had been admitted to St. Elizabeth's Hospital after being declared insane, weren't insane at all. "They played the psychiatric game," Samenow said. "They simply tricked their psychiatrist by telling the doctors what they expected to hear: stories about parental rejection, socioeconomic deprivation, guilt feelings and all the catchwords psychiatrists, psychologists and social workers have been trained to expect."

After several years of their work, Samenow said, Yochelson discovered his subjects "examined him more than he examined them."

"These men," he said, "rejected their parents, schools and society long before the institutions rejected them. They had made a series of choices early in life that had nothing to do with family, neighborhood, race or socioeconomic factors."

Julie Seeking Own Identity

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Julie Nixon Eisenhower is trying to establish her own identity after years of being known only as the daughter of Richard M. Nixon.

"I want to be accepted as a writer," she said in an interview Monday. "I want to feel that I'm a contributing member of society and not just one of the people who has lived in the White House."

At 28, former President Nixon's younger daughter has just written her first book, "Special People," which is to be published June 6.

The book contains six profiles of famous people she has known, including Prince Charles, heir to the British throne; the late Chinese leader Mao Tse-tung and author Anne Morrow Lindbergh.

Mrs. Eisenhower is quick to admit that the profiles, which deal with marriages, tragedies and problems in the limelight, reveal almost as much about her as they do about the people she interviewed.

Of Mrs. Lindbergh, an author and widow of Charles A. Lindbergh, Mrs. Eisenhower writes: "We talked about marriage and the seemingly unavoidable mistake of expecting more of the one you love than others, expecting men to meet your needs effortlessly, to share your goals."

Asked if her marriage to David Eisenhower was strained by the public life they led when her father was president, Mrs. Eisenhower said: "Yes, I think it has undergone great changes. I think that the last White House years were a greater strain on us than we realized, and in the decompression period, there were many adjustments to make.

"Not only was it gearing down from being on the phone all day and all of the demands on our time, like mail and public appearances, but it was getting to know each other again."

Mrs. Eisenhower said she is afraid her mother will not recover completely from the stroke she suffered last July. "They say that if you're not recovered within a year, you never have a complete recovery, and it's almost a year now," she said. "Mother has a little difficulty walking and can't use her left hand completely, but her spirit is good."

State Lake May Have 'Nessie' Too

BITELY, Mich. (AP) — Lydia Briggs swears she saw a 30-foot sea serpent with a six-foot-long black neck gliding across Nichols Lake.

In a week or so, U.S. Forest Service officials may find out if there really is some strange creature lurking in the 160-acre Newago County lake.

"We can call it Nowaygo Nessie," cracked Bill Irvine, a biologist with the U.S. Forest Service, who heard Mrs. Briggs' tale.

The federal employees who will be scanning the lake with underwater electronic gear sometime in the next week actually are working on an unrelated study of its fish population. But, Irvine promised a reporter, "We'll let you know if we find any monsters."

Mrs. Briggs, a former Lilley Township supervisor who now lives in Battle Creek, says she saw the creature five years ago.

She told her friends, but did not report the sighting to authorities.

"It's always bothered me but I never knew what to do about it," said Mrs. Briggs. She said the creature she spotted in Nichols Lake had two humps, each about four feet in diameter.

Mrs. Briggs finally told her story to Newago County commissioner Marshall Wilkinson, who recalled reports of similar sightings on the lake.

"It's possible but I've been here for 60 years and I haven't seen it," Wilkinson said. He insisted Mrs. Briggs would not make up such a story. "She wouldn't be fibbing and she wouldn't imagine it, but pranks are quite popular up here."

Joint Chiefs Unenthusiastic On Korea Pull-Out: Pentagon

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Joint Chiefs of Staff accepted President Carter's decision to withdraw all U.S. ground troops from South Korea without formally objecting, but didn't display "any" exuberant enthusiasm, Pentagon sources say.

The joint chiefs were not asked to give their collective opinion on the planned pull-out, the sources said, but were told only to produce alternative plans to carry out the withdrawal.

Gen. George S. Brown, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, was said to have taken part in the National Security Council discussions that preceded the President's written decision on May 1.

"Gen. Brown was in a position to give the views of the chiefs of the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marines," the sources said, indicating there were debates in the Pentagon "tank" where the joint chiefs regularly meet.

Meanwhile, a two-man American delegation to talks with the South Koreans on the withdrawal arrived in Seoul.

Philip C. Habib, U.S. under-secretary of state for political affairs, reiterated the United States' "continuing commitment" to the security of South Korea at an airport news conference.

In Washington, there were indications the military chiefs had said the United States should maintain air and naval power in South Korea.

The sources also indicated the joint chiefs feel there should be a speed-up in improving the South Koreans' equipment and training.

The Army, whose troops will be coming out of Korea under the Carter plan, has been the most set against it up to now.

The Army's concern, expressed both publicly and privately in the past, is that the withdrawal of the U.S. 2nd Infantry Division and supporting forces might invite North Korea to attack the South in the belief that the United States would not send in ground troops.

Many Army generals believe that the presence of U.S. air power does not represent the same solid evidence of U.S. commitment as an infantry division.

Defense Secretary Harold Brown said Sunday, however, that Gen. Brown, the joint chiefs chairman, "shares my view" on the withdrawal.

"We are convinced that over a period of four or five years we can withdraw our ground troops," Secretary Brown said.

LaGrange Group To Push Recall Baroda Township Slates Special Citizen Meeting

CASSOPOLIS — LaGrange township citizens attending a meeting of the LaGrange Township Taxpayers Association here last night voted to initiate recall drives against three township board members. Petitions were also being signed following the meeting against Supervisor Bernard Roethel, in case he does not go through with his announced intention to resign. Roethel resigned last Monday night, but the board has urged him to reconsider his action.

Last night's action came after several meetings of the taxpayers' association which has been protesting reassessments of township properties. The association has accused the board of failure to protect the rights and interests of citizens and of stalling tactics in preventing residents unhappy over their property assessments from seeking relief. Targets of the drives were Frank Weinbrenner, township clerk; Lucille King, township treasurer; and Norbert Pagels, trustee. Trustee Richard Shearer was not involved. He voted against accepting the reassessment roll.

The Association voted individually on starting the drives. The votes were Weinbrenner, 40 to 19 in favor; Mrs. King, 32 to 16 in favor; and Pagels, 35 to 13 in favor. The petitioners must obtain a minimum of 210 signatures of township residents to set up a recall election.

The reassessment roll had been submitted by then County Equalization Director Frank Nevins, who had been hired by the board to reassess the township's tax roll.

The group's legal counsel, Atty. Philip Harrison of Dowagiac, said a lawsuit he has been authorized by the group to initiate will be filed either this week or early next week, naming the township board, township board of review, Cass county commission, Nevins, and Dean Criffield, Nevins' assistant at the time, as defendants. Both Nevins and Criffield were dismissed from their positions by the county commission on May 10.

BARODA — The Baroda township board last night voted to hold a special citizens meeting after its regular board meeting June 20 to consider the proposed purchase of two lots near the entrance to the township's Hess lake park on Lemon Creek road.

At the annual township meeting April 2, the board was given permission to negotiate the price of the lots with the owner, Ram Baldwin realtor.

Since the annual meeting, the price has not been lowered, according to the board.

Citizens attending the special session will be asked to vote on the proposed purchases. The procedure will be similar to a vote at an annual meeting.

Four lots are for sale near the entrance to the park. The three nearest the park, about an acre each, are priced at $8,400, $8,800, and $9,000.

The fourth lot with a house and a boat 1 1/2 acres of land is listed at $17,900. The board is interested in constructing tennis, badminton and volleyball courts on two of the lots.

In other areas, the board voted to sell the lot of .092 acres on the northeast corner of Cleveland avenue and Brown-town street to Harold Freehling at cost plus back taxes and any incurred expenses. The lot was purchased recently for $1 from the state.

The board voted to write a resolution endorsing a Berrien county board of commissioners' resolution calling for speeding up construction of the proposed US-31 freeway.

Township Clerk Emil Nitz read a letter from the Berrien County Manpower Planning Council stating that a $27,246 Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) grant had been approved for a special project of environmental improvement — drain clean out and Supervisor Orland Mead said he hoped to have four men working on the project by June 13.

Edwin Raub, Lincoln township library director, and Mrs. James (Jean) Jasper, spokesman for the Baroda Library volunteers, gave the board a report on a library service project for the Baroda community. A CETA grant for $2,297 has been approved for the special project of pilot outreach and interest survey this summer.

With this money, the Lincoln township library plans to hire someone to work part-time in Baroda and part-time at the Lincoln library. St. John's Lutheran church on Cleveland avenue in Baroda has agreed to let the library use a room for library purposes. Plans for the Baroda center include special summer programs for children, materials for adults and senior citizens. Mrs. Jasper asked the board, as well as others, for suggestions to help this pilot program meet the needs of the Baroda community.

It was announced that the Baroda township planning commission will meet June 6 at 7:30 p.m.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Noise and engine emissions from trial flights of the supersonic Concorde in the Washington area have had no adverse health effects, the Federal Aviation Administration says.

The FAA made the assessment Monday in a special report issued one year after the United States permitted British and French Concorde traffic at Dulles International Airport.

Dowagiac Budget Is Presented

DOWAGIAC — City Manager Henry Graper Jr. last night presented a 1977-78 general fund budget which will allow for a contingency fund of $25,000.

He said during the public hearing on the proposed budget that he expects revenues of $1,039,305 and expenditures of $1,044,365. Current expenditures for the 1977-78 fiscal year have been pegged at $942,927.

Graper said he expects the budget to be met without an increase in the city's 15.5-mill local property tax rate. The city also gets two mills for debt retirement of the city's waste water treatment plant expansion program. The city's state equalized valuation is $24,274,531, Graper said.

Edward Owen, Dowagiac city policeman, protested the proposed dropping of funds for his crime prevention program which he has conducted for the past two years. During those two years the city has had to pay five per cent of the program's cost, with the remainder coming from federal and state sources.

However, during the third year of the program, federal funding would be cut to 50 per cent with the city having to pay the other half and the entire cost during the fourth year of the program. Graper said at the present rate it would cost the city $14,000 the third year and $29,000 the fourth year.

Graper pointed out that police and fire department expenses already require nearly all of the funds raised from local taxation and Police Chief Michael Schott is trying to work out a program which would permit Owen to devote a good deal of his time to his crime prevention activities even without special funding.

The proposed budget is expected to be adopted at the regular council meeting June 8. By that time a utilities budget will also be available, Graper said.

A breakdown of major expenditures in the proposed 1977-78 general fund budget, with the current year's in parenthesis are as follows:

Police department — $307,706 ($294,325); fire department — $84,612 ($75,062); insurance and fringe benefits — $100,000 ($80,000); financial administration — $69,774 ($65,400); executive branch — $52,700 ($49,076); general office — $36,800 ($37,650); cemetery — $39,904 ($39,750); parks — $34,816 ($35,050); recreation — $38,198 ($34,116); library — $76,000 ($68,491); and debt retirement — $41,193 ($15,436).

Graper said local taxes are expected to raise $571,230 toward the budget. Other expected revenues include $151,000 in state shared funds, $68,000 in federal revenue sharing money, and the remaining $229,000 from services, licenses, permits, penal fines and payments in lieu of taxes by city utilities.

Jane Says Anita Is Not Well

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Activist actress Jane Fonda told a homosexual rights party-dance that anti-gay crusader Anita Bryant is "not well" and is "fanning the flames of fear."

A guest of honor at the bash Sunday night in a local saloon was Sheriff Richard Hongisto, who told the crowd that Miss Bryant had demonstrated her "potential for bigotry and stupidity."

Miss Fonda, wearing a T-shirt imprinted with "Anita Bryant's husband is a homo sapien," said, "She's not well. She mustn't be a very secure person."

She said Miss Bryant "represents a kind of mentality and attitude that should have been swept away by the civil rights movement."

Strike Cuts Bed Space At Borgess

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — Borgess Hospital took out of service 63 of its 462 beds today to minimize effects of a service workers strike now in its fourth day.

A Borgess spokesman said that closing the 63 beds in two hospital units of the hospital's cut down the amount of walking needed by hospital employees.

An estimated 1,500 of the hospital's 2,000 workers remained on the job and were aided by scores of civilian volunteers, the hospital said.

The strikers are members of Local 79 of Service Employees, International.

Borgess officials said the strikers averaged $9,422 a year under their old contract and have been offered $10,100 under a new contract, plus $20 a month in additional health care costs. The union has asked for $10,000, plus the $20 a month.

Federal and state mediators were scheduled to sit in on a negotiating session later today.

Borgess said that by nightfall, the hospital expected it would have 380 bed patients, about 20 below normal. It said workers in some job classifications had been put on 12-hour days to help cope with the shortage of workers resulting from the strike.

Deputies Say His Escape Was Brief

Berrien county sheriff's officers reported a prisoner was recaptured Monday afternoon four minutes after he had broken loose from two jail guards in the jail reception room and fled outside.

Officers said the fugitive was apprehended when pursuing officers saw him lying on a concrete ledge beneath the deck of the newly christened Twin Cities Bicentennial bridge a short distance from the jail.

Deputy Larry Morrow fired a shot at the fleeing man during the chase, but he was not hit.

Returned to custody at 1:47 p.m. was Curley Lewis Faulk, 27, of Greensboro, N.C., deputies said.

Police said Faulk was brought to the jail about noon after he had been arrested by sheriff's officers and the FBI in a house on Hagar Shore road, Coloma township.

The FBI said Faulk was arrested on a federal warrant charging parole violation in North Carolina where he had been paroled after serving time in the federal correctional institution at Milan, Mich. He had been sentenced for interstate transportation of stolen cars.

Afraid You're Going Deaf?

Chicago, Ill. — A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Bel-tone. A non-operating model of the smallest Bel-tone aid of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone answering this advertisement.

Send for this non-operating model, put it on and wear it in the privacy of your own home. While many people with a hearing loss will not receive any significant benefit from any hearing aid, this non-working model will show you how tiny hearing help can be, and it's yours to keep, free. The actual aid weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at our level, in one unit.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 3149, Bel-tone Electronics Corp., 4201 W. Victoria, Chicago, Illinois 60646.

U.S. Supreme Court Upholds Agency Shop

WASHINGTON (AP) — Public employees who chose not to join a union that bargains for

Hunt Smugglers

KEY LARGO, Fla. (AP) — Deputies packing mosquito repellent along with their guns slogged through the mangrove swamps near here today, trying to round up smugglers of what may be the largest marijuana seizure ever in the United States.

"If the cops don't get them, the mosquitoes will," said Monroe County Sheriff William Freeman.

Freeman estimated that the marijuana haul totaled 50 tons. If the weigh-in backs up his guess, it will be the largest marijuana seizure ever in the United States and the third largest in the world, Freeman said. The pot's street value was said to be $50 million.

them may be required to help pay for union services, says the U.S. Supreme Court.

By unanimous vote, the high court ruled in a Detroit case Monday that so-called agency shops are valid.

An agency shop is one in which all employees who benefit from the union's collective bargaining are required to pay dues even if they don't join the union. However, the court said a nonunion employee who is forced to pay dues can insist that his or her dues not be used to advance political or other causes undertaken by the union.

But dues collected from nonunion workers can be used to help finance activities such as contract administration and grievance procedures, the court said.

The decision came in a case from Detroit, where more than 600 public school teachers and counselors filed suit in 1969 challenging a union agreement that required them either to join the Detroit Federation of Teachers or to pay the equivalent of dues each month.

John Mitchell, the former attorney general of the United States, and ex-White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman have 25 days to try to avoid becoming inmates of a federal penitentiary.

The Supreme Court all but sealed the fate of the two confidants of former President Richard M. Nixon when it rejected their Watergate cover-up conviction appeals. The court also rejected the appeal of former top White House official John D. Ehrlichman, who already is serving his prison term.

In other matters Monday, the court:

—Abolished the Guam Supreme Court. The justices voted 5-4 that the island territory's legislature never had the authority to create such a court, which took away jurisdiction from a federal court established in Guam by Congress.

—Ruled in a 5-4 decision that states have no power to do away with criminal penalties for the mailing of pornographic movies and publications. In an Iowa case, the court's majority said federal law controls cases in which the mails are involved. The justices said also that states cannot lay down guidelines for juries about "community standards" in obscenity cases.

—Voted 7-2 to let stand an order by a federal judge in South Carolina restricting what participants in a criminal trial can say to reporters.

U.S. District Judge J. Robert Martin placed certain restrictions on witnesses and attorneys in the trial of former state senator, Ralph Gasque. That trial, on charges that Gasque misappropriated federal Manpower funds by using public employees in his private law practice, began Monday.

Court Clears Way For Mercedes Trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court on Monday let stand a lower court's ruling that could subject Mercedes-Benz dealers in the United States to damage claims by up to 300,000 Mercedes owners.

The justices turned down an appeal by the auto manufacturer claiming that the 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals was wrong when it allowed two men to file a lawsuit on behalf of all Mercedes owners in the nation.

The court's action clears the way for a federal trial on charges that Daimler-Benz of Germany, its subsidiary Mercedes-Benz of North America and 588 Mercedes dealers here conspired to raise prices artificially for parts and repairs.

Jules Link and Solomon Katz filed suit against the car manufacturer in a federal court in Philadelphia three years ago.

They charged that from 1970 to 1974 a price-hiking conspiracy existed in violation of federal antitrust laws.

The federal court allowed the two men to represent a class of Mercedes-Benz owners — some 300,000 of them — with the understanding that, if an illegal conspiracy was proven to exist, all Mercedes owners would have to make factual presentations as to the extent of damages.

The suit alleged that during the four years the prices of some 26,000 auto parts were rigged, and that thousands of repair jobs involving millions of customer invoices were involved.

Mercedes-Benz appealed to the circuit court, arguing that the two men should not be certified to represent a class of persons whose damage claims will vary.

Republicans Make Pitch For Black Voters

By LARRY MACINTYRE
Staff Writer

The Republican party can win in black communities by fielding highly qualified black candidates and by showing how

GOP presently suffers from an image in the black community of being the rich man's party, but he said the image can be overcome by quality black candidates effectively addressing chairmen of the state Republican party. He is currently making trips throughout the state in an effort to stir up support in black and minority communities for the Republican party and its candidates.

He said he is searching for black candidates to run on the GOP ticket for state and local offices and he is also working to make the party more receptive to issues of concern in minority communities.

He said he is looking for blacks who have a history of community involvement in civic and church groups and who are well-known in the community.

Blacks are like any other ethnic group, he said. They will vote for the candidate who best espouses their personal interests, regardless of his party.

In the Detroit suburb of Highland Park, which is 85 per cent black, a black Republican has twice defeated the Pickard said.

The GOP has initiated some programs aimed at snatching those votes back, he said.

Nationally, the GOP is spending $500,000 with a black con-

'Gut Issues' Can Bring Switch, Says Detroit

Democrats for the mayor's office, Pickard said.

Most blacks were Republicans until the 1936 Presidential election, he said. Eleanor Roosevelt "snatched" blacks from the Republican party by doing so many things that were important to blacks, sulting firm to learn how to better market Congressional and gubernatorial candidates in the black community, he said.

In Michigan, no state-wide candidate can win without substantial support from blacks, Pickard said.

That is why the GOP is trying to make its positions known in black and minority communities, he said. The GOP stance on many issues should appeal to blacks and other minorities, he said.

On unemployment, he said it was proven in the early 1930's and 1960's that the Democrat's solution of massive public employment does not work.

"To solve the unemployment problem of head-of-households, you have to go to the private sector," Pickard said. The Republican plan of offering tax incentives to private industry for hiring minority people and the hard-core unemployed should appeal to the black community, he said.

He said Republicans have consistently been in the forefront of the fight against inflation, and that should appeal to minorities who often are in the lower income groups.

Pickard visited several black churches in the Twin Cities Sunday. On Monday, he gave an address at Lake Michigan college and a talk at the Benton Harbor library, both on re-involving blacks in the Republican party.

A native of Flint, Pickard has a bachelor's degree from Western Michigan university and a master's degree from the University of Michigan.

Pickard is also chairman of the Governor's Advisory Committee on Minority Business, an organization he said spends about $250,000 a year helping minority businesses get established.

He said the money is mainly spent on helping minority businessmen find and apply for loans from private and governmental sources. The committee has offices all across the state with the closest in Kalamazoo, he said.

Millage, Two Board Seats Ride Coloma School Vote

COLOMA — Three candidates seeking two available school board terms and the proposed renewal of a 10-mill property tax levy will be on the Coloma school election ballot June 13.

Candidates seeking election to the two four-year terms are incumbents Merlin C. Hauch and Dean Mohney and challenger Mrs. Beverly R. Frick.

Polls for the annual election will be at the Coloma township hall and will be open from 7 a.m. until 8 p.m.

The 10-mill property tax renewal proposal for school operations would run for three years.

School officials have said that if it is turned down, the district would lose $710,192 in state aid plus the $840,000 in local revenue the levy would raise the first year. The combined loss of $1,550,192 would represent more than 25 per cent of the district's 1977-78 tentative budget of $4,190,000.

If approved, the district's total mill levy would remain the same as this year: 28.385 mills, including 25.876 mills for operations and 2.509 mills for debt retirement.

Defeat of the renewal would "make it impossible for the school to operate," officials have said.

Mrs. Frick is trying to unseat one of the incumbents in the race for the two available board terms.

She is 36, a widow and is a part-time office worker. This is her first try at winning a school board seat.

Mohney, 39, of 1498 Maple Lane, Benton Harbor, is seeking a full four-year term after being elected to a one-year term in 1976. He is manager of financial analysis for Whirlpool Corp. He and his wife Connie have two children.

Man's Spine Broken

BY DENNIS COGSWELL

PAW PAW — A 30-year-old

Paw Paw man suffered a fractured spine while swimming in an Almena township pond three miles northeast of here last night, state police here said.

Michael Delich, route 3, M-40, was listed in poor condition this morning at Borgess hospital, Kalamazoo. Police said they received a call at 8:10 p.m. of a possible drowning at Blocker's pond on 30th street, a half mile south of Almena road. Trooper James Baker said that when he arrived Delich's girlfriend, Gayla DeBoer, 25, Paw Paw, was administering mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

Baker said he relieved her until an ambulance arrived and took Delich to Lake View hospital, Paw Paw. Miss DeBoer told troopers she and Delich had been engaged in horseplay in the water and that she pushed him under water by the back of the head. Police said when Delich failed to surface, she dove under and pulled him out of the water.

Baker said Delich may have struck his head on the bottom. He quoted Miss DeBoer as saying Delich had been drinking throughout the day.

Niles Teen Arrested In Drug Sweep

A Niles teenager became the 37th person arrested during the Berrien Metro Narcotics squad's recent raid when he voluntarily surrendered yesterday at the Niles police department, according to the Metro office.

Scheduled for arraignment today in Berrien District court on a Metro warrant charging delivery of LSD is Timothy Lee Colcord, 19, of 1264 Rose avenue, Niles. Metro officers are still seeking nine persons on warrants obtained before last week's raid.

BERRIEN SPRINGS

Tax Rate Lowered To Even 15 Mills

BERRIEN SPRINGS — The Berrien Springs village council last night voted to lower the village property tax rate for 1977-78 by three-tenths of a mill.

The rate was lowered from 15.3 mills to 15 mills as the council adopted a revised budget of about $440,961. The 1977-78 budget was $367,618.

Village Clerk Wade Gorham said final 1977-78 budget figures will probably be a "trifle lower" than the $440,961 figure.

Village President Edgar Kesterke said the village tax levy was lowered because of the increase of the state equalized valuation (tax base) of property in the village.

During 1976-77, the tax levy of 15.3 mills (14.8 for village operations and a half mill for Sparks Memorial library) raised about $151,000 on the village tax base of $9,906,700.

The lower 15-mill tax rate for the coming year will raise about $156,216 on a tax base of $10,414,402, village officials said.

The new budget carries a better-paying pension plan for village employees, and a one-year trial program of uniform rentals for male employees, but does not include a 50 cent per hour raise village employees had been asking.

"The employees did not get the raise they requested because of the other benefits included in the budget," the village president said today. He said employees will continue to get twice-a-year increases based on the cost-of-living index.

Current hourly salaries are $4.57 for the roads department; from $4.57 to $4.82 for the sewer department; from $4.57 to $5.04 for the water department; and $3.94 for general employees.

The C-1 pension plan included in the new budget will provide village employees with about $750 more yearly in retirement pay.

In other areas last night, the council voted to turn over to its attorney, Jerry Johnson, complaints that David Keys is violating a zoning ordinance by selling vegetables at the residentially zoned home of his father Joseph Keys at 628 St. Joseph road.

The council said Keys can continue to sell the home-grown vegetables until it has been determined if there is a violation of village ordinances.

The council also voted to level, cover with topsoil and seed the site of the old junior high school next to the courthouse square on US-31.

The council voted to seek an appraisal of two lots owned by John Upson behind the Upson home at 102 Broadway. The council is considering purchase of the lots to provide a buffer zone around the village water well.

Four Seek Board Seats In Fennville

FENNVILLE — Four people, including one incumbent, are seeking two, four-year seats on the Fennville school board in the annual school election here Monday, June 13.

No millage or bonding issues appear on the ballot this year, according to Supt. James Tackman.

Seeking the two four-year seats are incumbent Donald A. Nye and challengers Douglas W. Welsch, Bill R. Edholm and Donald J. Dickinson.

Nye, 41, route 2, 122nd avenue, has served one year on the school board. He was elected to the board last June to complete the unexpired portion of a previous term. A maintenance worker at Rockwell International, he and his wife, Marilyn, have four children.

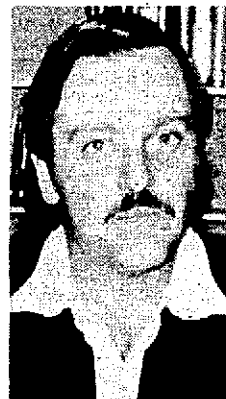

Welsch, 26, 122nd avenue, the winemaker at Fenn Valley Vineyard, is making his first try for the board. Lynn, is a teacher at Fennville middle school.

Edholm, 47, route 3, 62nd street, was an unsuccessful candidate in last year's school election for a four-year seat. Farm superintendent of the Joseph Campbell mushroom farm, he and his wife, Connie, have seven children.

Dickinson, 33, 2271 Cedar road, is head pro at the Holland tennis club. A graduate of Fennville high school, he and his wife, Patty, have two children. This is his first try for a school board seat.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. at the Fennville middle school.

Berrien Youth Fair Sets Days For Livestock Pre-Registration

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Pre-registration of all livestock, except beef steers, to be exhibited at the Berrien County Youth fair this year will be conducted June 3 and 4 at the fairgrounds. P.J. Walton, Three Oaks, youth exhibits coordinator for the fair, said all horses, sheep, swine, goats, dairy cattle, and beef breeding animals must be registered at this time to be eligible for exhibit at the fair, Aug. 16-20. The advance registration will be held between 1 and 5 p.m. on Friday, June 3, and 9 a.m. and Noon on June 4. Registration of beef steers was conducted in January.

Walton said exhibitors will be provided with entry sheets and identification procedures at the time of registration. If the exhibitor cannot be present on June 3 or 4, a parent or other representative may pre-register for the exhibitor. Mail registrations will be accepted if received before noon on June 4. Walton stressed that the animals are not to be brought to the fairgrounds for pre-registration.

King, Queen Candidates Must File By June 11

BERRIEN SPRINGS — The deadline for entries in the king and queen contest for the 1977 Berrien County Youth fair is June 11.

Any high school junior or senior (1976-77 school year) who is a resident of Berrien county and who is a present, active exhibitor at the fair is eligible to enter, according to Mr. and Mrs. Ted Shunkwiler of Berrien Springs, contest co-chairmen. Entries can be mailed or phone to the Berrien County Youth fair office here. Entry information requested includes name, address, age and phone number.

The contest is scheduled for Entry Day, Monday, Aug. 15, at 8:30 p.m. The queen contestants will appear in formal dresses and the king contestants are to wear leisure or dress suits for the contest.

The king and queen will each receive a $100 scholarship to the college of their choice. Several get-acquainted meetings are planned for the contestants before the contest date.

Damage Set At $8,000 In Niles Home Blaze

NILES — Fire which may have been started by a discarded cigarette caused an estimated $8,000 damage to the Mark Godsey home at 16 Marmont street last night, Niles firemen reported.

Fire Chief Marion Fuller said no one was at home when the blaze was reported by a neighbor about 10 p.m.

Firemen found a living room sofa engulfed in flames. Fuller said. Fuller said the fire was confined to the living room but there was smoke damage throughout the one-story, frame house.

Godsey rents the house which is owned by the estate of the late Martha Graham, Niles, firemen said.

The fire chief said the blaze could have been started by a discarded cigarette.

SNOOPIN' AROUND

By JOHN VANDEN HEED

The proposed landowner preference doe hunting plan will probably be dropped again because of opposition from Michigan United Conservation Clubs and lack of support from hunters and farmers.

Department of Natural Resources deer management specialist Dave Arnold has had only one letter and two phone calls in support of the recommendation to give landowners an advantage in obtaining a doe permit. The Farm Bureau is the only organization in support.

On the opposition side is the MUCC, which convinced the Natural Resources Commission to kill an experimental landowner preference plan last year. Peninsula politicians and sportsmen's club have also come out against the plan.

The DNR's wildlife division presented several landowner preference alternatives at the NRC's April meeting and asked for public input. The proposals are now slated to get final NRC action at its July meeting.

The Southwestern Michigan Steelheaders will hold their second annual Powderpuff Derby on Saturday, June 4.

It is open to all wives and daughters, plus sons under age 11, of chapter members. The weigh-in will be at Mollhagen Fisheries in St. Joseph.

Trophies will be awarded to the top three places in each of the following categories: coho, chinook, brown trout, steelhead and lake trout.

The $6 entry fee should be mailed by May 28 to: Powderpuff Derby, Southwestern Michigan Steelheaders, P.O. Box 141, St. Joseph, Mich. 49085.

There will be a gun show Sunday, June 5, starting at 8 a.m., at the Berrien County Sportsman's Club.

The event, sponsored by the St. Joseph Valley Arms Collectors Association, a division of the Berrien County Sportsman's Club, will have an admission fee of $1 (children 12 and under free).

Display tables cost $4 for members and $5 for non-members. Table reservations, including the fee, should be sent to: August Zielke, 329 E. Snow Rd., Baroda, Mich. 49101.

Historic Forts Open To Public

The historic "gates" to Michigan's Forts Michilimackinac at Mackinaw City and Mackinac Island — through which a record half-million visitors came last year — are now open for the 1877 tourist season, reports the Department of Natural Resources.

Administered by the DNR's Mackinac Island State Park Commission, the forts date back before the American Revolution and feature military and other cultural attractions of the period.

Fort Michilimackinac (and Maritime Park) will be open until Oct. 16, with visiting hours from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., except from June 15 through Labor Day, when closing time is extended to 8 p.m.

Across the Straits at Fort Mackinac, visitors are welcomed through Oct. 9, when "gates" close for the winter. Daily visiting hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., except from June 15 through Labor Day when hours are 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

"This year, there will be a full-time blacksmith at work at the Island's Blacksmith Shop," notes Dave Armour, assistant superintendent. "Visitors can observe two women engaged in early American household chores throughout each day at the Priest's House, Fort Michilimackinac, including spinning, cleaning and cooking over open fires."

Traditional archaeology "diggings" will get underway at Fort Michilimackinac June 20 and continue through August 26, Armour adds.

"Reconstruction of the powder magazine has been completed, and workers will be reconstructing two traders' house still occupied during the American Revolution," he says.

The annual Memorial Day weekend pageant at Fort Michilimackinac will again be sponsored and programmed by the people of Mackinaw City. This year, the realistic enactment of the Indians' 1793 capture of the then-British fort will take place at 3:30 p.m., May 28, (Saturday), and at 2:30 p.m. May 29 and 30, outside the walls of the fort.

A 1 p.m. parade May 28 and knife-throwing and muzzle-loading demonstrations are part of the town's festivities.

At the Maritime Museum, adjacent to the fort and the Mackinac Bridge, visitors can observe the construction progress of the pre-1800 era sloop "Welcome", as park workers drive wooden pegs into the planks. The vessel is a replica of the naval craft that plied the Straits waters from 1775 to 1781.

Tour guides will be wearing duplicates of the 1796 uniforms worn by the first Americans to occupy the fort. Flying over the fort will be a 15-star, 15-stripe flag — a replica of the first American banner to be unfurled.

Adult admission to both parks is $2 now and $2.50 from June 15 through Labor Day. Youths 13 through 17 pay $1.50 and there is no charge for children under 12.

Saugatuck Boat Tourney Winner

SOUTH HAVEN — A Saugatuck-based boat owned by a Battle Creek captured first place honors in the South Haven Chamber of Commerce fishing tournament last weekend.

Ideal weather conditions prevailed for the sixth annual tournament and resulted in a record cumulative catch by the 80 entries.

Top prize money of $1,850 went to the crew of the boat Buster Bee. Owner of the boat was Arthur (Buss) Morse of Battle Creek. Members of his crew were Tom Vaccaro, Robert Jackson and Paul Filipan, all of Battle Creek, and Steve Hallowell of South Haven.

The winners compiled 414.8 points by catching 19 fish during the two fishing periods. It was the first time that any of the crew had competed in a fishing tournament.

Other boats receiving prize money, their owner and point totals were: Sea Dog, Steve Otterbein of Grand Rapids, 382.0;

Cacharwill, Harold Wildt of Covert, 370.13; Penn Reel Fishmaster, George Pedrolini of Kalamazoo, 360.1; Webfoot, Gerald Harsch of South Haven, 351.1; Run-n-late, Chuck Peters of Three Rivers, 345.9; Bandit, Dick Britzin of Muskegon, 342.4; Winn-Cliff, Cliff Soulliere of South Haven, 336.10; Brandywine, Joe Kimmerly of Niles, 332.0; Finlander, Al Laaksonen of Kalamazoo, 331.9.

The largest fish as a 37-inch long, 18 lb., 11 oz. king salmon caught by the crew of the Buster Bee.

Tournament officials said a total of 771 fish weighing 5,304 pounds were caught. A breakdown by species included 573 lake trout, 174 king salmon, 19 coho and 5 steelhead.

Pickers Can Wipe Out Wild Flowers

The ancient custom of picking wild flowers in May could be more of a detriment to the environment than many well-meaning gathers understand, says the Department of Natural Resources.

Increasing population and modern technology have contributed to the disappearance of many appealing native plants now listed as protected wild flowers under Michigan law, notes DNR botanist Sylvia Taylor.

"Even wild flowers that appear to be abundant can be wiped out in one season at the hands of several eager pickers," Taylor adds. "For example, you can't tear up Trailing Arbutus without destroying much of the plant. Trilliums grow from bulbs, each producing only one set of leaves and blossoms per season. Picking destroys the entire plant. A dozen people gathering Flowering Dogwood from one tree can leave it permanently disfigured."

Fishing Report

There has been light pressure and fair success so far in the newly-opened northern pike fishing season in southwestern Michigan, according to the Department of Natural Resources.

Better waters have included Dumont Lake in Allegan county, Pike Lake in Cass county and Van Aulen Lake in Van Buren county. A favorite lure is the daredevil.

Meanwhile, bluegill fishermen have been having the best success in the evening hours using flies, poppers and red worms.

Out on Lake Michigan, lake trout remain the No. 1 fish for trollers. Many boats are now working in deeper waters...some out in the 200-foot range.

FIR TREES BIG

Douglas firs can grow to 200 feet or higher, have trunks 15 feet in diameter and bark a foot thick, reports National Geographic.

Episode In 1974 Leads To Pair Of Prison Terms

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau
PAW PAW — A Lansing man was sentenced to two prison terms Monday in Van Buren circuit court on charges growing out of a wild chase on I-49 nearly three years ago.
Michael Renard Prophet, 21, was sentenced to serve from 23 months to four years in prison, with 392 days credit for time already served, on a charge of felonious assault; and 16 months in two years, with 335 days credit, on a charge of attempting to abscond on a personal recognizance bond.
Both sentences were handed down by Judge Meyer Warshawsky, who said they would be served concurrently. The judge also recommended that Prophet receive psychiatric counseling while in prison.
The felonious assault charge stems from a Sept. 21, 1974, episode during which a man stole a pick-up truck in Mattawan after assaulting Mattawan police officer Stuart Strayer, according to state police at Paw Paw. Troopers said the truck was finally halted at a roadblock near Watervliet when it slammed into a Berrien sheriff's cruiser.

Police said Prophet was shot after he allegedly came out of the truck and pointed a gun at a trooper. The case had been delayed in part after Prophet had to be extradited from Los Angeles. He was accused fleeing there while free on bond while awaiting trial on the assault charge.
Also sentenced, as a result of earlier guilty pleas were:
Julius Bowden, 28, South Haven, 14 months to two years in prison, with credit for 130 days already served, on a charge of attempted larceny from a building, $688 from the Bi-Lo gas station, South Haven, last Sept. 23.
Donnie Ray Franks, 23, Coloma, 15 months to two years in prison, on a charge of attempting to abscond on a personal recognizance bond. The bond was furnished last January in order that Franks could enter a drug rehabilitation program in Lansing.
At the time, he was facing sentencing on another absconding charge in connection with a bond set after he was arrested in May, 1975, on a breaking and entering charge. Earlier this month, he was sentenced to serve from 20 months to four years on that absconding charge.

The two sentences are to be served concurrently.
Ishane Gill, 24, 561 Broadway, South Haven, one year probation, $100 fine, and 24 days in jail on a charge of resisting arrest following a traffic violation in South Haven Dec. 8.
Daniel Eugene Crall, 18, Gobles, 24 days in jail, $100 fine, and one year probation on a charge of larceny in a building, money from the Mostly Ceramics shop, South Haven, last Nov. 19.
In arraignments, Nathan Toliver, Jr., 49, of 855 Kalamazoo, South Haven, stood mute on a supplemental information charge alleging he was convicted of three counts of forging U.S. Treasury checks in Milwaukee in 1964. Conviction

Prisoner Handed Another Sentence For Jail Offense

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer
A man already serving a prison sentence for larceny was sentenced to another prison term yesterday in Berrien Circuit court for committing sodomy against a prisoner at the Berrien county jail.

Sentenced to 12 to 18 months in prison by Judge Zoe S. Burkholz was George Melvin Dunn, 21, who listed former addresses of Benton Harbor and St. Joseph. The judge ordered that the new prison term is to begin after Dunn finishes serving time on the first sentence.
Dunn was sentenced for fourth degree criminal sexual conduct — sodomy with another prisoner Nov. 5 at the county jail. "People in the Berrien county jail have a right to be free of this kind of attack," Judge Burkholz said in imposing the prison term.

Dunn in March, 1975, was sentenced in Berrien Circuit court to 30 to 48 months in prison for larceny in a building. In July, 1976, according to the judge, Dunn was placed under supervision of the correction center in Benton Harbor while still a convict, and stole a car.

He was sentenced to six months in the county jail for the car theft, and committed sodomy while serving that sentence.

Judge Burkholz also sentenced Charles Perry, 37, of 75 738 Monroe street, Benton Harbor, to one year in jail for use of heroin Sept. 4 in Benton Harbor. In sentences by Judge Julian E. Hughes:
Frankie Barber, 23, of 254 Jefferson court, Benton Harbor, was sentenced to 1½ to 4 years in prison for possession of heroin Aug. 11 in Benton Harbor.

Donald Penley, 23, of Harbert, was sentenced to 1½ to 4 years in prison for two probation violations, failing to report to his probation officer and getting fired from his job. Penley had been placed on two years probation by Hughes in February, 1976, for larceny in a building.

Jack McCord, 24, of Berrien Center, was sentenced to two years probation, assessed $250 fine and costs, and ordered to make restitution of $125 for attempted larceny from a building — the attempted theft of a carpet June 20 from an unoccupied house in Berrien township.

In arraignments before Judge William S. White:

John Landers, 50, of 174 Dewey, Benton township, pleaded innocent to a charge of assault with intent to murder. He is charged with pointing a shotgun at Sheriff's Det. George Voltrath May 2 at 174 Dewey and pulling the trigger. The gun did not fire and no one was injured.

James Sylvester, 26, of South Bend, pleaded guilty to carrying a concealed weapon — a pistol — April 30 in Three Oaks.

Crackup Followed By Two Arrests

Crackup Followed By Two Arrests

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — The reported theft of a truck tractor which was later involved in an accident Saturday in Decatur led to the arraignment of two men yesterday in Seventh district court.

Richard Lee Hammond, 19, and Tent N. Temple, 18, both demanded preliminary examination on charges of unlawfully driving away a motor vehicle when they appeared before Judge William C. Buhl.

Hammond was ordered held on $6,500 bond and Temple on $3,000 bond. Both hearings were set for May 31.

Decatur Police Chief Byron Ives said both men were originally from California but had been living at a rural Decatur address for the last three weeks. Officers said they were arrested after a tractor truck struck an electric pole in an alley off Phelps street.

Police indicated the tractor had been taken earlier in the day from Huron Farms, 201 South George street, Decatur, without the owner's permission.

In other cases, Brian C. Kuhl, 17, 310 Cass street, Dowagiac, was released on his own recognizance after demanding preliminary examination on a charge of breaking and entering. A May 31 hearing was ordered.

Van Buren sheriff's deputies said the charge stems from the reported theft of $8 worth of coins and a .22-caliber pistol from a home on 80th street, Keeler township, Saturday.

Robert L. Halberstadt, 17, route 1, Hartford, was bound over to circuit court after waiving preliminary examination on a charge of breaking and entering. State police at Paw Paw said his arrest followed a burglary last Friday at the Van Buren Sportsmen's club, CR-607, Hartford, during which a small amount of change and two blank checks were reported taken.

Halberstadt was released on his own recognizance.

Weapon Assault Charged

Benton township police reported the arrest Monday of William Howard Lee, 37, of 155 Plum court, after two shots allegedly were fired during a struggle between a man and a woman on Concord road.

Police said Lee was charged with assault with a deadly weapon after Wilma Lee, 44, told them a man had threatened her with a gun in front of 160 Concord. She said she struggled with the man and that two shots were fired into the ground, police reported.

Officers said they seized a loaded .38 caliber pistol during the arrest at 9 p.m.

Benton Harbor police booked Elliot A. Greer, 41, of 1029 Bishop avenue, on a charge of breaking and entering after officers answered a burglar alarm at 2 a.m. today at Berrien County Action, Inc., 617 Pipestone street.

City police said Greer was taken into custody by Benton township Patrolmen Steve Hansen and Thomas Street who assisted in answering the alarm. Police said Greer was found in a garage behind the Pipestone address and nothing was taken from the BCA offices.

State police of the Benton Harbor post reported seizing a .22 caliber pistol and small quantities of suspected heroin and marijuana at 2 a.m. today after a car was stopped in a parking lot off M-139, Sodus township.

Charged with violation of the controlled substance act and carrying a concealed weapon were Ezekiel Wadley, 25, of South Bend, and a second man, who had not been identified because he first gave a name that proved to be false, troopers said.

State police also reported the arrest of Carmen J. Vicari, 37, of St. Clair Shores, on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. Troopers said they stopped a car at 11:30 p.m. on I-94 in Benton township and seized a loaded .25 caliber pistol.

Henry Lee Hicks, 33, 1111 Superior street, Benton Harbor, was arrested at 9:30 a.m. Monday and charged with malicious destruction of property after neighbors reported a man breaking windows at 1115 Superior, city police reported. Police said a number of windows were broken and two vehicles were damaged at the home of Rodney Henry Hicks was lodged in the county jail, officers said.

Hartford Petitions Ask Sewer Costs Breakdown

HARTFORD — Petitions signed by some 250 residents requesting a breakdown of costs on Hartford's proposed $1.8 million sanitary sewer improvement project were presented to the city council last night.

The petitions presented by ex-councilman Don Smith, requested cost breakdowns of the project in terms of equipment, capital outlay and operating expenditures per year and the basis for repayment of bonds. The petitions also requested the issue be put up for referendum.

The petitions were accepted, but action on them was deferred until a study being done by a county rate consultant has been received. As of now, city officials don't know how much it will cost individual users.

Milton Wehmeier, councilman, requested everyone wait until the rate study is completed and pointed out that the city's current sewer system has been operating at a $20,000 a year loss for the past several years. He said an upward adjustment in sewer rates will be needed regardless of whether a new system is constructed or not.

Bids for the project are expected to be open next month, but awarding of a contract would be contingent on receipt of expected federal and state grants. Wightman and Associates, St. Joseph, previously reported the city's share of the cost would be $407,900. No decision has been made yet on how local costs would be paid.

Although the petitions sought a referendum on the issue, city charter requires that to initiate a referendum by petition, 25 percent, or 1,200 signatures of city residents are needed.

In other areas, the council approved the same city tax rate, (14.8 mills) as last year. The millage will be divided as follows: 14 mills for general operation; 8-mill for local streets; and 2-mill for sidewalks. The rate is still 2-mill under the maximum (15 mills) allowed by city charter. In addition 2-mill extra voted for recreational purposes

Bangor Delays Du-Wel Hearing Until June 13

BANGOR — The Bangor city council last night postponed until June 13 a public hearing on whether to designate a $750,000 addition at Du-Wel Metal Products, Inc. as an industrial development district. City officials said that due to an error in the physical description of the property, the public hearing set for last night had to be postponed.

Du-Wel is in the process of rebuilding that part of the plant extensively damaged in an April, 1976 fire. If it gets its industrial development district designation approved by the city and the state, it will be exempted from half the city property tax millage rate for the next 12 years in accordance with state laws permitting the exemption.

In other action last night, William Stanislawski headed a group of about 15 city residents who appeared before the city council and asked for stronger enforcement of city housing ordinances.

The group, calling themselves "Citizens for the Improvement of Bangor," said they want more rigid enforcement of city building and housing codes to force rehabilitation of substandard houses in the community.

The council also ordered city employees to make a strong effort to try and curb swimming from the Second street bridge over the Black river and to check on the cost of running additional water outlets to the city cemetery.

Paw Paw Signs Bids Passed On

PAW PAW — The Paw Paw village council last night authorized Public Works Supt. Harry Bush to use his own discretion in accepting a bid for new village traffic signs.

The council received five bids on signs and posts last night, but only two had computed totals. The others gave individual prices on items.

Bush said the village has been authorized up to $22,000 under a federal program to replace the village's approximately 600 traffic signs. He said the purpose of the program is to make traffic signs across the country uniform.

Bush said the public works department will install the signs, with the signs and posts expected to cost about half the total authorized expense by the government.

In other areas, the council gave permission to the Village Players theatrical group to use Maple Island on June 24-25 and July 1, 2, 3 to stage the musical "South Pacific."

Hartford Undecided On School Cutbacks

HARTFORD — The Hartford school board told some 40 residents attending last night's meeting that no decision has been made on what cuts would be made if a proposed 10-mill property tax issue fails June 13 in the district's annual election.

The issue is a combination of a six-mill renewal plus an additional 4 mills. The 10-mill package would run for three years and generate about $250,000 a year in local taxes and $400,000 in state aid.

The issue, if approved would bring the district's total tax rate to 26.58 mills for operating purposes. The district also will levy 7.18 mills for debt retirement. The tentative 1977-78 budget is

$2.1 million. William Austin, school board president, said the board was "in no position to deal with it at this time," when asked what would happen if the millage fails.

The board said all extra curricular activities would have to be examined on merit, before deciding which ones would be cut out if the millage fails.

In other areas, the school board by a 4 to 3 vote approved a motion made by Roger Duncombe that for the current school year, all students maintaining an A average in a class would not have to take the final exam in that class. The matter would be studied further at a later date. The student council study committee had recommended that students maintaining a B average in any one class be exempt from taking final exams in the class. The student committee said a survey taken showed 19 teachers were for the idea, two against and one was undecided.

James Kappler, high school principal, said he had no argument with the student council's proposal.

Voting in favor of Duncombe's motion were Duncombe, James Keech, Lyle Boothby and Marion Toney. Voting against it were Austin, Stephen Shaler and Thomas Smith.

Buchanan OKs Budget Over $1 Million

BUCHANAN — A 1977-78 operating budget of $1,057,606, up $63,243 over the present budget of $994,365, was approved by the Buchanan city commission last night.

At the same time, the commission voted to hold the line on the city property tax levy at 14 mills, the same rate levied for the 1976-77 budget. The vote came after no objections were voiced at a public hearing.

In his budget message to the commission, City Manager Robert Faulhaber said $132,212 had to be borrowed from the city's community financing fund in order to meet estimated expenses, without hiking the

Keeler To Join Millage Protest

KEELER — The Keeler township board last night approved joining with other Van Buren county townships in protesting the county allocation board's decision not to give townships a bigger slice of the county's tax pie this year.

The townships sought a bigger share of county taxes to help pay for higher road maintenance costs, including excessive costs for snow removal the past winter.

By law, the allocation board yearly divides a 15-mill non-voted property tax rate among townships, the county and schools.

Sodus Boy To Attend YCC Camp

Scott Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Taylor, 2960 Spring Valley court, Sodus, has been selected to attend the Youth Conservation Corps camp this summer at Spring Lake in the Huron national forest of Michigan.

The camp is located about 40 miles south of Alpena. Taylor, a sophomore at Lake Michigan Catholic, will be one of 54 youths ages 15 to 18 working on forestry projects at the camp from June 26 through Aug. 5, according to a camp spokesman.

The camp is sponsored jointly by the U.S. Departments of Agriculture and Interior.

Property Tax Levy Remains At 14 Mills

Local tax revenue, minus an estimated one per cent that will not be collected, was estimated at $485,946. State revenue was estimated at $298,800.

Faulhaber said a large portion of the budget, $224,000, has been set aside for capital improvements. Those projects include building an access road to city park property along the St. Joseph river, three new bridges, $10,000 for the eventual purchase of a new bookkeeping machine and the final phase of street improvements in the northeast area of the city.

In addition, the new budget also calls for $29,900 for the reappraisal of commercial and residential property in the city.

Major departmental expenses, with present budget figures in parentheses, include: Law enforcement $265,784 ($250,387); public improvements, $162,200 ($151,991); department of public works, $113,602 ($92,485); treasurer, $49,670 ($37,211); cemetery, $53,955 ($50,852); municipal street fund, $56,241 ($73,764); sanitation, $51,803 ($52,068); library, $49,078 ($34,595); and fire department, $37,418 ($35,398).

The large increase in the as-essor's figure was due to the money set aside for the reappraisal, while the treasurer's increase was due in part to the funds set aside for the bookkeeping machine, Faulhaber said. Fire and library budgets include funds set aside for additions and inflation was estimated at six per cent in setting the budget, he added.

In other areas, the commission voted to remove two bills from a list of unpaid bills for city services and unpaid special assessment levies that were added to city property tax rolls for collection. It also voted to initiate legal action in connection with a third.

The two bills were removed after a heated exchange between Faulhaber and a store owner.

Bills retained on the list totaled $2,718.

Dropped from the list were bills to the Gambles store, East Front street, for $30.80, and the Ross Standard service station, also on Front, for $22.38.

William Sullivan, a co-owner of the Gambles store, appeared to protest the bill and ask it be struck from the list. The bill covered the removal of sand Faulhaber said had eroded from the back of the store onto a city parking lot, and the removal of snow from East Front street which the city claimed had been shoveled there from the store sidewalk.

Sullivan accused Faulhaber of not cooperating with him in the matter. He label the city manager "arrogant" and "arbitrary." Faulhaber in turn said Sullivan had not cooperated in removal of the sand and the snow posed a traffic hazard. "You don't listen," Faulhaber responded to Sullivan.

A first vote to add all the bills, including those for Gambles and the service station, was defeated with Gene Wesner and Mildred Anderson voting yes, and commissioners R.W. Bellaire and Bennett Jensen, and Mayor Richard Gauli voting no.

On a second vote, after Bellaire moved to strike the two bills in question, all voted yes with the exception of Wesner.

In a related area, the commission instructed B.R. Desenberg, city attorney, to initiate court action against apartment landlord Elton Orpurt Jr. Orpurt is the owner of several Arctic street apartment buildings that have been targets of complaints from nearby residents, who have protested against trash near the buildings.

While specifics of the court action were not made clear, Desenberg suggested legal action as a means of answering the complaints. Bills to Orpurt for $1,006 for trash removal and $24 for mowing weeds were included in the list of bills added to the tax rolls.

Also last night, the commission voted to retain parallel parking on both sides of Front street, between Red Bud trail and Oak street. The vote came after a traffic study recommended the area not be converted to angle parking.

The commission formally voted to spend $275,000 in South Oak street.

On the recommendation of Mayor Gault, the commission approved the following reappointments and appointments to city boards:

Board of tax appeals, Don Holmes; planning commission, Keith Morrow, James Jesse, Kenneth Mall, Donald Ryman and Joseph Garbert Sr.; library board, Mrs. Eldon Proud and Don Nichols, and parks and recreation, James Wolford and Mrs. Milton McGuirt.

Berrien county landfill for $3,055, needed to meet additional operating expenses.

At the request of former mayor Joseph Garbert II, the commission passed a resolution saying it was against proposed federal legislation allowing "instant" voter registration.

Approved on the recommendation of Dan Moore, police chief, was a traffic order making permanent a 15-minute parking limit in front of the Mini Mart convenience store on

Twenty-One Persons Face District Court

An Omaha, Neb., man demanded examination when arraigned in Berrien Fifth District court on a charge of transporting females for the purpose of prostitution.

Walter L. Goodwin, 26, failed to post $50,000 bail and was jailed. State police of the Benton Harbor post reported Goodwin was arrested May 20 along with two women in a room at Howard Johnson's motor lodge, south of Benton Harbor.

The women pleaded innocent in charges of soliciting for prostitution. Jailed in lieu of bonds of $10,000 each were Debra A. Prince, 18, and Donna Sue Bradley, 17, also of Omaha.

Others demanding examinations Monday were:

James A. Lee, 26, of South Bend, accused of violating the controlled substance act (possession of the drug phenylcyclidine) Sunday at Warren Dunes State park. He was jailed in lieu of $2,000 bond.

Jerome M. Johnson, 24, of 686 East Vineyard street, Benton Harbor, accused of assault with a deadly weapon, a knife, against Tommy Clark May 1 in Benton Harbor. He was jailed in lieu of $2,500 bail.

Reuben T. Holliday, Jr., 26, of 1608 Lillian street, Benton township, on charges of breaking and entering the Office Lounge, 205 Territorial road, Benton Harbor, and attempting to break into a safe in the lounge May 20. He failed to post bond of $15,000.

Seven people were sentenced for use of marijuana. They were:

Michael L. Brown, 20, of Bensenville, and Christine M. Brown, 18, of Wheaton, both of Illinois, each three days in jail, fine and costs of $200 and six months probation; Dale A. Pace and Scott M. Grantham, both 18 and both of Michigan City, Ind., each $100 and six months probation; Allen P. Wlodarczyk, 19, of Calumet City, Ill., $50 or 10 days in jail; Richard J. Cohen, 18, and Kevin D. Buscher, 17, both of Battle Creek, each $50 or 10 days in jail.

Sentenced for the following violations were:

Driving while license suspended — Timothy W. Hayes, 21, of Buchanan, three days in jail and $65 or 20 days in jail total; Joseph M. Coleman, 25, of Flint, three days in jail and $62 or 15 days in jail total.

Gerber Takeover Stalled

WHITE CLOUD, Mich. (AP) — A Michigan court order has temporarily blocked a Texas firm from buying Gerber Products Co. in Fremont.

Hearings were to begin here today on a request from Gerber that the director of Michigan's Corporations and Securities Bureau be ordered to hold a hearing on the $400-per-share offer from Anderson, Clayton Co. of Houston.

Newaygo County Circuit Court Harold Van Dornen ordered today's hearing last Friday when he issued a restraining order barring the purchase.

The court action was another stumbling block in the way of plans by the Houston firm to create a food giant with sales topping $1 billion.

Anderson, Clayton was ordered to show today why the restraining order delaying the effective sale date should not become part of a preliminary injunction.

The hearing also ask the state agency's commissioner, Hugh Makens, to show why no hearing on the purchase offer is needed.

Makens said Monday that Gerber's action cited inadequacies in Anderson, Clayton's statements about the purchase offer.

Gerber's challenge accused Anderson, Clayton of "media meddling" in its descriptions of the offer.

Gerber, based in nearby Fremont, says a merger could create a baby food monopoly and has filed a federal court suit challenging the $330 million takeover.

Anderson, Clayton's federal court countersuit seeks dismissal of Gerber's suit. The Texas company also asked the federal court to ban further Gerber comments about the offer until Gerber corrects earlier statements Anderson, Clayton insisted were false. Hearings on the federal court issues are slated for June 20.

Meanwhile, Anderson, Clayton is barred by Michigan law from buying any more Gerber stock until 60 days after registration of its offer by the Corporations and Securities Bureau.

This is the first corporate takeover proposal to come under regulation of a new Michigan law which took effect last July 1.

"Absolutely anything is possible at this time and place," Makens said Monday when questioned about the impact of the Newaygo County Circuit Court restraining order.

If a merger occurs, Anderson, Clayton would add Gerber's sales of $372 million to the $739 million in sales the Texas firm recorded last year.

Families May Rue 'Spend First, Save Later' Policy

By MARTY HAIR
Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP) — Typical American families had better start clipping coupons, sewing their own clothes and growing a garden. They're going to need every penny they can get.

For example, they don't have enough money saved to send their two children to college.

Their savings wouldn't be much help if they faced a medical emergency or more-than-brief period of unemployment.

And the parents have not considered how much they're going to need for retirement.

"The typical American family is spending first, then saving if there's anything left over," says B. James Theodoroff, executive vice president and chief trust officer for Detroit Bank & Trust and co-author of a financial "portrait" of the typical American family.

The study was based on figures from government agencies, such as the census department and Bureau of Labor Statistics, and also on industry figures from national banks, insurance firms and

THE TOWN THAT MOVED: Denio used to be a small, dusty Oregon border town, but in 1950, the 20 or so residents decided to try changing their luck and the town seceded from the state and moved a few hundred feet south, across the line into Nevada. But it didn't $50 cash on hand.

The U.S. Bureau of the Census recently reported that the median family income for a four-person family rose 7 1/2 per cent to $15,850 during 1975. For that family where the wife works outside the home (full- or part-time), the median income would be about $18,000. The median falls to $13,700 if the wife does not have outside employment, according to the study.

The profile shows that the standard of living for the typical family rose — slightly — last year.

The family has home furnishings estimated at $5,200 and personal property of $1,600. About 10 per cent of that value is still owed by the typical family.

The family bought a mid-priced car in June 1975 and car ownership has increased their net worth $1,270 through last April.

They are unlikely to own real estate except a home and probably don't have money in stocks, bonds or other investments, according to the profile.

The family spends $12,570 a year. The biggest chunks go for food, housing and personal income taxes.

"Save first, spend later — that used to be the way things were done," Theodoroff said. "And we still have many old-country people who believe that."

"But they're not the typical American family. That typical family is just not saving first."

He suggests the first thing to do to prepare for a more secure financial future is save the equivalent of three months' income as a cushion for dire emergencies.

The second priority should be money for children's future training. "You'll be restricting your children's options if there isn't enough money when that time rolls around," he added.

The typical family has a boy 13 and a girl 8, and no money saved for college or training.

A third goal should be to plan for retirement. "Social Security and pension plans just aren't enough," according to Theodoroff.

How do you save money on a typical four-person family salary of $16,236? Plan and grit your teeth, Theodoroff said.

"They'll just have to work more savings in. You have to make tradeoffs to accomplish goals," he said.

Suggested ways to cut corners are using car pools, sitting down with the rest of the family to plan a budget, keeping track of how money is being spent, and not carrying cash. It takes more time and thought to write a check and may head off impulse buying, Theodoroff said.

You can also save by shopping at sales, turning off lights to save energy, buying necessities in discount stores and clipping coupons to save — also on necessities. Make a grocery list and stick to it, and don't shop when you're hungry. It isn't a bargain if you don't need it, Theodoroff warns.

Other ways to save are to take advantage of "freebies" such as public libraries, museums, zoos and parks.

Consider buying a house. The typical family's home has nearly doubled in the eight years since purchase. Like many other American families, if you own your home, you might not be able to afford it today if you had to buy it at its market value.

"The sooner you buy a house, the better off you'll be," he advises. The only caution is to choose an area where the values will increase, rather than drop.

With house and car payments, life insurance costs and other fixtures, not much may be left over for saving from the typical family's budget. But, Theodoroff notes, "Even if they spend every nickel they earn, they'll still be saving because of those payments toward the principal on loans."

And what about the diet-like depression that comes from strict scrimping?

"You have to set goals. It's the satisfaction of reaching a goal that can overcome that temporary depression," Theodoroff said.

THIS IS THE TIME of year when people pack their bags and head for other places. Here are tips that could make traveling easier. Packing: Lay out on the bed all the things you'd like to put in your luggage — and, after that, put about half of it back in the closet! ...If your luggage has tie tapes or straps on the inside, put a fold of tissue paper under each knot or buckle. Then you can pull the tapes out without wrinkling the clothes. ...If you carry wash-and-wear clothes, be sure to pack a plastic, or even a rustproof wire clothes hanger. Many hotel hangers can harm your clothes. ...Soap is not always abundant in foreign hotels. If you do not want to bother packing a wet cake of soap, use a tube of shaving soap instead. It will get you just as clean and it's easy to carry.

Kenton Still In Poor Condition

READING, Pa. (AP) — Stan Kenton, a pioneer in the big band jazz sound, remained in poor condition at a hospital here today after suffering a stroke.

Kenton, 65, was taken by ambulance from his room at a hotel late Sunday night to the emergency room at Community General Hospital. He was transferred to Reading Hospital early Monday.

SECURITY: Lock your luggage. This protects you from pilferage and keeps the catches from snapping open under rough handling. If you have valuables though, put them in the hotel safe. A locked suitcase in your room can be a tipoff there's something of value inside, and it's easy to steal the whole case. ...Dresses and suits on plastic hangers, encased in plastic garment covers and folded in half, will travel without wrinkling. ... You get more work out of your copier by spending less time with the originals.

The people who manufacture copiers rate the speed of their machines by how fast they make many copies from one original. But, the people who use those machines, don't use them that way at all! Most people copy several originals at a time. The result is there's a big difference between "rated" time and "real" time. That difference is the time wasted positioning originals, opening and closing covers, pushing buttons, waiting for each copy cycle to complete, etc., etc.

The new Savin 780 plain paper copier lives up to its rating of 20 copies per minute. It gets it out as fast as you can get it in. Our machine has a document feed that automatically positions and transports each original through the copier. There are no buttons to keep pushing, no covers to keep opening and closing — no shuffling of papers. The Xerox 3100 "rated" at 20 copies per minute, the Xerox 4000 "rated" at 45 copies per minute and the Xerox 3600 "rated" at 60 copies per minute in "real" terms will on the average, copy only 5 different originals in a minute — and that's the real story on "real" time!

Trade up to the new Savin 780, today. You'll not only get more for your money — you'll spend much less to do it.

Garbage Truck Flips

BANGOR — Two men escaped injury when their garbage truck overturned last night on M-43 west of here.

State police of the South Haven post said the truck was westbound on M-43 when the driver reported that a car pulled out in front of him causing him to swerve and lose control.

The driver, Rochester Prince, 21, route 1, South Haven, and a passenger, Clarence Peterson, 26, route 1, Covert, were not injured though the truck landed on its side off the road in a field after the 8:35 p.m. accident.

Bangor firemen washed down gasoline spilled in the accident. No tickets were issued, police reported.

Trucks Crash On I-94

HARBERT — A St. Joseph man was one of three men involved in an accident of three semi trucks about 5 a.m. this morning on I-94 near here, according to state police at New Buffalo.

Police said Richard Hill, 36, 6447 Niles avenue, escaped injury in the collision which sent 45-year-old truck driver Herbert Main of Des Moines, Iowa, to the hospital and resulted in cuts and scratches for a third driver, Robert Van Dreunel, 26, of Wyoming, Mich.

Main was admitted for treatment at St. Anthony's hospital in Michigan City. There was no immediate report on his condition.

Van Dreunel sought his own treatment, police said.

Police said the accident occurred when Hill attempted to re-enter the eastbound lanes of the interstate after being parked along the side of the highway.

The rear of his truck was struck by Main's oncoming truck, police said. Main swerved his truck into the path of the eastbound and oncoming an Van Dreunel truck, police said.

Officers said that the rigs of both Main and Van Dreunel crossed the median strip, all three westbound traffic lanes and a ditch before coming to a stop on nearby Youngren road.

Troopers said no citations were issued but that the accident remains under investigation.

Watervliet Vandalism Reported

WATERVLIET — Berrien county sheriff's officers reported Monday that vandals caused $4,000 damage to six trucks and an earthmover parked at the Watervliet Redi-Mix company Case court, Watervliet. Police said the damage to radiators and wiring on the vehicles was probably done by someone using an iron pipe and wire cutters.

Sheriff's officers also said Monday $239 in cash was reported stolen from the Triple J Self-service gas station, Red Arrow highway, Watervliet, sometime Sunday night or early Monday morning. Officers said the money was taken from a drawer.

Eau Claire To Vote On Bond Issue

EAU CLAIRE — The Eau Claire village council last night set July 13 as the date for a special election on a $55,000 bond issue for a street improvement program.

Carol Rumbaugh, deputy village clerk, said the council estimated it would take a three-mill levy over a 10-year period to pay off the bonds if approved.

About half the streets in the village would be included in a program of blacktopping. Total estimated cost of the program is $80,000. The village has $25,000 on hand earmarked for the improvement program.

Special Education Growing At Gobles

GOBLES — The Gobles school board last night approved extending its special education program for handicapped students to the elementary school during the 1977-78 school year.

The district currently has a special education class that serves some 22 students at the junior and senior high levels.

According to Supt. Guy Leversee, 10 students at the present time are to be included in the elementary program. He added that screening is in process for other students. He said the students will be assigned to what is to be called the elementary resource room.

Depending on the degree of learning disability, some students will spend full days in the room. Others, he said, may spend only a few hours a day in the resource room and attend other classes, such as physical education and music.

Currently at the elementary level, Gobles special education students attend classes at Paw Paw.

In other areas, concerning the new campaign financing act, all board members said they had never received any contributions or spent any money on their election campaigns and will not have extra bank accounts for such purposes unless forced to do so by the new law.

The board approved letting elementary teachers Mary Cain and Mark Renaud switch grades. Cain will teach fourth grade next year and Renaud, third grade.

It was announced that absentee ballots for the upcoming June 13 school election can be obtained from the school board secretary or office of the superintendent.

Galien OKs Demolition Contracts

GALIEN — The Galien village council in a special meeting last night awarded a contract for the demolition of four structures in the village to Paul Gernierders of Galien.

The contract is for $6,430 to tear down the four buildings under a grant provided by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Gernierders was the lowest of four bidders, the highest being $9,700.

Village officials identified the structures to be torn down as a barn of Mrs. Helen Skibbe, West Southeastern avenue; a shed of Lloyd Cowles, George street; an old store building known as the Lee building, Cleveland avenue; and an old house known to village officials only as the Karch house, Sherman street.

Money to tear down the structures is part of a community development grant for housing rehabilitation.

RICH DOG: Spot gets a little attention from Warren Williams, one of three workers who take care of 38 dogs that are heir to $16 million, or about $421,000 each. Cash was left for their care by an oil heiress at Deerfield Beach, Fla. The original number of dogs to be cared for was 170, but most have died. Dogs were to be cared for 20 years or until they died, with the money reverting to the Scott Small Animal Research center at Auburn university. (AP Wirephoto)

Commencement Schedule Announced At Eau Claire

EAU CLAIRE — Eau Claire high school will hold its baccalaureate June 2, at 7 p.m., and its commencement at 3 p.m., June 3, both in the high school.

New Source Of Insulin?

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An alliance between two scientists — one studying diabetes, the other experimenting with genes — has produced a major breakthrough toward developing an abundant supply of insulin.

Insulin is a hormone that helps the body change blood sugar into energy. About 20 percent of all diabetics must have insulin daily to survive.

Drs. Howard Goodman and William Rutter, announced Monday that their laboratories at the University of California-San Francisco had successfully produced a primitive form of insulin, into colonies of bacteria, where they reproduced along with their bacterial hosts.

school, according to school officials.

Guest speaker for the Thursday night baccalaureate service will be Rev. George Fleming of the Chapel Hill United Methodist church of Sodus.

At the Sunday afternoon commencement exercise, guest speaker is scheduled to be Lawrence Peachey, president of the Berrien county intermediate school district board.

The 81 seniors due to get high school graduation diplomas are: L.C. Adams, Cheryl Arnt, Michael Bailey, Larry Bell, Rhonda Blaylock, Teresa Blumier, Rick Bone, William Broderick, Kevin Burbach, Marialice Cahoon, James Cheatham, James Christy, Richard Cochran, Roger Daugherty, Larry Dewey, Lori Dohm, Ellen Douglas, Cynthia Dudas, Diane Dunn, Dennis Durham, Jeffery Edinger, Mary Edinger, Richard Edwards and Thomas Edwards.
